Bridge, Viaduct Not Included in Rebuilding Plan

Engineer Says DPW Has No Program to Rebuild Area Roads Feeding Thruway - Expects Interchange Will Lessen Traffic Burden

J. S. Bixby, district engineer of the New York State Department of Public Works at Poughkeepsie, said today the department has no immediate plans to rebuild area state roads that will carry traffic to and from the New York State Thruway when it is completed in 1954.

This, he said, includes the narrow Esopus creek bridge, the Washington avenue viaduct and the narrow section of Route 28 above Boiceville.

It is estimated, he said, that traffic will be heavy during a period of from nine months to a year when the Kingston-Saugerties section of the thruway is temporarily connected with Route 28, but it is also expected that after the interchange is built and the entire route finished, that the traffic load to and from the super highway will not be exceptionally heavy in this area.

Connection Only Temporary

The connecting of Route 28 and the thruway under a contract scheduled to be let this fall, he said, will be only temporary. Meanwhile, he said, progress on the plans for the first section south of Route 28 to Whiteport, now indicates that they will be ready for the advertising for contract by late fall.

The Kingston-Whiteport contract, he said, will include the building of the traffic interchange within the first half mile of Route 28 west of the city. This calls for the relocation of a section of the Esopus creek bed just west of the city along with the spanning of two railroads, Route 209 and the Lucas Turnpike.

Some Congestion Expected

Bixby said that during the nine months or possibly a year in which Route 28 and the thruway are temporarily connected, state officials expect some traffic congestion on Route 28 leading into

Rail Dispute Far From Settlement

New Haven Road Considers Move to Help Out 20,000 Commuters

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Union and company men resume talks today with no signs of an immediate settlement of the dispute that threatens to halt New York Central System trains east of Buffalo.

A strike, originally scheduled for last Monday, was postponed to give federal mediators time to try to bring the parties together.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railroad Conductors—all independent—have been at odds with the railroad system over 58 grievances and claims for the last two years.

The New Haven Railroad—not involved in the matter but concerned because its commuter trains use Central tracks in New York City—made plans to try to continue service in the event of a tie-up.

Studies Rerouting Trains

It studied the practicability of rerouting trains which carry 20,000 passengers daily from Connecticut and New York points to the city.

One idea was to send them down a now unused branch known as the Harlem River line, terminating them at Westchester Ave., the Bronx, where passengers could transfer to a subway.

Other commuters, the railroad said, could detrain at Mount Vernon and come on into the city by bus and rapid transit.

The New Haven's Boston-Washington trains use a different route, owned by it and the Pennsylvania Railroad, to get through the city, so presumably would not be affected.

Bank Is Stymied

San Francisco, Aug. 13 (AP)—Anybody want a lock of John Brown's hair? Or a piece of the scaffolding on which the famed abolitionist was hanged before the Civil War? The items were found here in a safe deposit box at the Bank of America and belong to the estate of Mrs. Helen Meany Hubbard, 77, who died recently. The bank, named executor, doesn't know what to do with them.

Gabrielson Reply Expected About Stocks Allegation

New Jersey Man Accused of Violating Trust of Woman—Not Available

Freehold, N. J., Aug. 13 (AP)—Ex-Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson today is expected to answer allegations that he illegally acquired $75,000 to $100,000 in stocks from a wealthy widow.

Gabrielson was accused of violating the trust and confidence of Mrs. Irene B. Jackson in a Superior Court suit filed here yesterday.

The suit claimed that in 1936 he induced Mrs. Jackson to transfer her stock in a New York loan company to him and neglected to tell her its true value.

Asks Return of Stock

It asked the court to rescind the contract, return the stock to the estate and enjoin Gabrielson from disposing of it.

Mrs. Jackson, wife of the late Frederick Mozart Jackson, died last March at her home in nearby Ocean Grove. Her estate was valued at $300,000.

Gabrielson, accused last year of "influence peddling" in connection with $18,500,000 in Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans, was not available for comment on the suit yesterday.

Transfer Charged

According to the suit, filed by executors of the Jackson estate, the stock transfer took place on March 5, 1936. It involved 2,400 shares of common stock in the Monroe Securities Corp., headed by Gabrielson.

The agreement stipulated that Gabrielson was not to register the stock while Mrs. Jackson was alive. He had the alternative of paying the executors of the estate $5,000 for the stock or turning it over to them within six months of her death. They turned down his offer to pay for the stock.

The 61-year-old Gabrielson, a resident of Barnardsville, N. J., was elected GOP national chairman in 1949. He nearly lost the position last year when he came under fire for what Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) called "highly improper" loan deals. He later was cleared of any wrongdoing, but stepped down, as is customary, at the close of the convention last month.

Youth, 18, Captured in West; Questioned About Slaying

Brea, Calif., Aug. 13 (AP)—William F. Rupp, Jr., 18, sought since a 15-year-old Yorba Linda babysitter was murdered last Friday, was captured shortly before midnight last night in a cafe here.

Orange county sheriff's deputy Jess Buckles said the youth admitted shooting Ruby Ann Payne. He surrendered without a struggle climaxing a search by 200 peace officers.

Young Rupp was employed as a beekeeper at the ranch of Harry Dyer whose children Miss Payne was watching when she was fatally shot with a .22 calibre rifle. Yorba Linda is about 25 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

The ranchhand was the object of an intensive search throughout southern California since the girl's body was found with her clothes partially ripped off, apparently the victim of a sex attack.

Buckles said Rupp denied raping the girl but admitted hitting her with a hammer and shooting when she ran from his advances. He said he'd never seen her before that night.

"I'm really sorry, I didn't mean to do it," deputies quoted him.

Rupp had been sought since one of the Dyer children, Kenneth, 8, told deputies he had seen the youth standing near Ruby Ann holding a rifle.

The vigil of young Rupp's father, William Sr., ended with the capture. He had joined the hunt personally and in open letters to newspapers urged the youth to give himself up.

When notified the boy was taken, Rupp said, "Thank God that no one was injured and that my boy is in the hands of authorities. My heart goes out to the parents of the girl who lost her life in this tragedy."

He went immediately to the courthouse to see the boy. Earlier Rupp said he would stand by Billy, claiming he needed medical aid.

Marines End Red Charge, West Korea

Artillery Helps

Big Guns Are Employed to Assist Troops in Hill Defense

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 13 (AP)—U. S. Marines and artillery today cut to ribbons 750 Chinese Communists assaulting leathernecks entrenched in prefabricated bunkers atop Bunker Hill on the Korea western front.

The battalion-size attack—second major bid of the Chinese to recapture the height—was broken at dawn. Chinese losses were described as very heavy.

The marine commander, Maj. Gen. John T. Selden, said the Panmunjon truce site "is marine territory now. We certainly are going to hang on to it."

Marine foot soldiers, supported by flame-throwing tanks, captured the strongly fortified height and nearby Siberia Hill early yesterday. The Reds counter-attacked at dusk yesterday but were thrown back with heavy losses.

No Hopes Given Up

There was no indication the Chinese had given up hopes of retaking the position. In mid-afternoon today a marine spokesman reported that Communist artillery and mortar fire was falling on Bunker Hill.

By dusk sniper fire was reported intense and Red artillery fire quickened to powerful proportions.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers ranged across the front today in support of ground troops but concentrated mainly in the Bunker Hill region.

6,000 Artillery Rounds

A marine spokesman estimated the Communists threw 6,000 rounds of artillery against Bunker Hill in today's four-hour pre-dawn attack.

Marine gunners laid down a curtain of fire as Red soldiers darted through the darkness in a frantic charge.

"It was a hell of a fight but they never reached our positions," the spokesman said.

The Chinese began falling back after daybreak.

Two hundred other Chinese encircled a small marine outpost about 1,000 yards north of the main attack. This fight lasted two hours as UN artillery helped hold back the attackers. Finally reinforcements broke through the Red lines and helped drive them off.

Fighting elsewhere on the front was relatively light.

1,600 More Police

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Faced with statistics indicating an upsurge in crime, New York city plans to add 1,600 men to its police force. Mayor Vincent Impellitteri told a news conference yesterday the new men, to be hired between October and next June, would bring the force to its fully budgetary strength of over 20,000 At the same time, however, the mayor denied there has been an increase in crime here. He asserted that any increase shown in police department figures released Monday resulted from a new system of recording crimes, which involves listing many minor cases which formerly did not show in the statistics. The figures showed 132 homicides in the first six months of 1952 as compared with 116 in the first six months of 1951, and 22,005 burglaries in the first half of this year as compared with 14,961 the same period last year.

Will Be Witness

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will be an official witness tomorrow when his orphaned niece, Clarissa Churchill, marries his political heir, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. The marriage will take place in London's Caxton Hall register office. Because Eden divorced his first wife on grounds of desertion two years ago, there can be no church wedding. The Church of England refuses to officiate at the marriage of a divorced person. Eden, 55, and his 32-year-old bride will leave Friday by air for a short honeymoon in Portugal.

Armed Forces Praised

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 13 (AP)—U. S. Army Secretary Frank Pace today praised Yugoslavia's armed forces as being "in superb physical condition under excellent leadership." Before leaving Belgrade this morning, Pace watched Yugoslav units in a mock attack on a hill near Belgrade. Then he flew to the summer capital at Bled to confer with Premier Marshal Tito.

Eisenhower Blasts Truman Intention

Nixon Says Adlai Plans Unfair Use

Stevenson Would Use People-Owned Rights and Resources to Aid Campaign

Says He's Captive

'Bosses,' He Says, Run Illinois Nominee in His Drive

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon asserted today that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, met with President Truman "to get a briefing on how he can carry forth the Truman policies."

Nixon, Republican nominee for vice president, also charged that Stevenson sought "to marshal for his campaign the great resources of the federal government which, incidentally, belong to the American people and not to any political party."

He said this is the only possible interpretation of what he termed "the unprecedented action" of Gov. Stevenson's meeting with Truman in Washington yesterday.

Prepared for Rally

In a speech prepared for a Republican rally at the Illinois State Fair—the very backyard of the Illinois governor—Nixon hammered at his theme that Stevenson is the "captive candidate" of "the bosses."

The youthful California senator compared Stevenson with Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, saying:

"The evidence continues to pile up that Adlai Stevenson is a man who, regardless of his expressed intentions, is now a helpless captive of those who made his nomination possible.

"Millions of Americans saw

Truman Pal Gets Vote Shellacking

Arkansas Governor Loses Third Term Try in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP)—Gov. Sid McMath, a political pal of President Truman, was defeated for a third term nomination yesterday by a one-time college classmate, Judge Francis Cherry.

It was apparent early as returns from the runoff Democratic primary poured in that McMath had suffered the first setback in his rapid six-year political rise. McMath conceded his defeat and promised his support of Cherry's administration some four hours after the polls closed.

Unofficial reports from 2,040 of the state's 2,286 boxes today gave Cherry 190,542 votes to 110,675 for McMath.

McMath was the second Truman-backed Democrat to be defeated within the last two weeks. Last week J. E. (Buck) Taylor, the President's choice for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Missouri, was beaten by Stuart Symington.

Cherry Is Newcomer

Cherry, a 43-year-old Chancery Court judge from Jonesboro, is a newcomer to state politics with a new political weapon—the radio talkathon on which he answered questions from all comers and discussed issues for as long as 24 hours at a time.

He frankly credits his use of the talkathon with being the "difference" that lifted him from comparative obscurity to a close second place in the July 29 preferential primary and victory in yesterday's runoff.

Democratic nomination — such as Cherry obtained yesterday—always has meant election in this southern state.

Indecisive Session Is Reported at Capital

Stevenson Said to Have Assurances of 'Back Seat' Role by Truman, Who Says Details Are to Be Worked Out—No Reply to HST Offer

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois tightened his command over his presidential drive today, with President Truman ready to take campaign orders.

As a result of an historic—if somewhat indecisive—White House conference yesterday, Stevenson had assurances he could count on Truman as a subordinate member of his team.

And it was strictly up to the Democratic presidential nominee as to when and where he would insert Truman in the lineup. That was to be determined later in line with Truman's statement that "details will be worked out at a later date."

President Is Quoted

The President was quoted by an authoritative source as offering to undertake a whistle stop tour for the Democratic ticket, but as telling Stevenson:

"You are the one who has got to run the campaign—it is up to you."

Stevenson apparently made no direct reply.

But some of his friends believe about the last thing he now wants the President to do is to take to the whistle stops, since any such move might distract attention from the nominee's own efforts to carry his cause to the country.

Apparently left unresolved in a three-hour session publicly acclaimed by its two top participants as "very satisfactory" was a conflict in tentative speaking dates for Labor Day.

To Open Campaign

Stevenson had planned to open his campaign Sept. 1 with a speech in Detroit, where Truman began his successful 1948 drive. Truman tentatively had accepted a date to talk in Milwaukee the same day.

Although this matter was discussed at a hour's meeting at which Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the vice presidential nominee, sat in, no decision was said to have been reached.

Stevenson said on his return to Springfield, Ill., that if arrangements can be worked out "I think we both may speak on the same day."

Red Infiltration Plan to Get Into Scouting Reported

Security Unit Says Moscow Inspired Plan Also Aimed at Churches, Other Groups

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—A Communist scheme to infiltrate the Boy Scout movement and feed its youngster-members "communism with sugar coating" was described in sworn testimony made public today by Senate investigators.

The internal security subcommittee in a report to the Senate termed it part of a Moscow-inspired plan to warp generations of teen-agers to the Kremlin's views, in the schools, colleges, churches and youth organizations.

"I can conceive of few greater crimes," said Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.), the subcommittee chairman, in a prepared statement released with the report.

Sworn Transcript

The report includes a transcript of sworn testimony given last March 5 by Harvey M. Matusow of Dayton, Ohio, a self-styled former Communist now an agent of the Ohio Commission on Un-American Activities. The hearing was behind closed doors.

Matusow said the Communists,

Hundred Stores Participating in Big Days for Sales

Successful Time Predicted by Association for August Event in Kingston

Approximately 100 local merchants are cooperating to promote the August edition of the semi-annual Kingston Days sale on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Byron Chatham is chairman of a committee of members of the Kingston Merchants Association who are planning the sale.

Successful Sale Predicted

Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the Merchants Association, today predicted a successful sale. He revealed that retail business this summer has been extremely good, and for that reason stores now have a completely new stock of merchandise for the sale.

Wonderly also pointed out that additional parking facilities have been made available since last year, and suggested that customers make use of the free parking space in the municipal stadium, which was recently opened for that purpose.

Regular store hours will be observed Friday and Saturday, with the 9 p. m. closing on Friday.

Nurse Charged With Poison Death of Niece in Alabama

Wetumpka, Ala., Aug. 13 (AP)—A grim-faced nurse charged with poisoning her 2-year-old niece and calmly watching an autopsy on the body was called to trial here today on the first of two murder charges that could mean her own life.

Gray-haired Mrs. Earle Dennison is accused of feeding arsenic to Shirley Diann Weldon, who died May 1, and also to her tiny sister, Polly Ann.

Shirley was only a few days old when Polly Ann died two and a half years ago after a sudden, violent illness. Only the death of Shirley Diann was on the court docket for today.

The widowed, 54-year-old nurse who worked at the hospital where the child died was arrested a week later after the parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Weldon of the nearby Claud community, swore out a murder warrant.

Sheriff Lester Holley said Mrs. Dennison admitted, without a show of emotion, that she gave Shirley Diann arsenic in a soft drink and took her to the hospital when she went into convulsions. The child died five hours later.

State Toxicologist C. J. Rehling said the autopsy, performed with Mrs. Dennison present, showed arsenic.

Still suspicious about the death of Polly Ann nearly three years before, the Weldons arranged to have her remains analyzed. Dr. Rehling said she, too, had traces of the deadly metallic poison, and another warrant was signed against the aunt.

Sheriff Holley said Mrs. Dennison denied intentionally poisoning Polly Ann, but admitted leaving a salt shaker containing arsenic at the Weldon home after a visit. She said she used it to make an insect killer.

The sheriff said the woman told him, however, that she collected $5,000 on an insurance policy after the first child's death. She gave no motive for the admitted slaying of Shirley Diann, but Holley said she reportedly had two policies on her totalling $6,000.

Attack Is Sharpest on Democrats

General Says President Shows Determination to Continue Policies Through Adlai

Government 'Used'

Raises Query Whether Federal Setup Can Be Employed

Denver, Aug. 13 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower says Adlai Stevenson's White House visit shows the Truman administration is determined to continue its policies through its hand-picked successor.

Those policies, General Eisenhower charges, have carried the nation to a situation "of bewilderment, indecision and fear for the future."

In his sharpest attack on the Democrats since his own nomination for the presidency, Eisenhower declared last night in a written statement the Washington conferences between Gov. Stevenson of Illinois and administration leaders presented these "far-reaching implications:"

1. The question as to whether the President and his cabinet "can possibly contemplate using resources of the federal government to influence the judgments of voters."

Implied Decision

2. An implied decision to involve non-political officers, through the inclusion of military and national security personnel in the meetings, in a political campaign "in which they have no part."

3. "The obvious fact that the Democratic party, if given another four years to control our destinies, would not change its policies."

"The American people want a change," Eisenhower said flatly.

Then he gave a hint of issues he will pound at during his campaign by declaring.

"They want a change in order to replace corruption with honesty; reckless spending with economy; inflation with economic stability; mismanagement in foreign affairs with clear-cut policies and programs for positive peace; brazen assertions of 'inherent power' with constitutional government, both in spirit and deed."

Slap at Seizure

The last remark was an obvious slap at President Truman's seizure of the steel industry under what Truman termed the inherent powers of the government. The Supreme Court later held the seizure unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, Arthur E. Summerfield, chairman of the national Republican committee, conferred nearly around the clock with Eisenhower and his chief of staff, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. They were talking campaign details but no decisions were announced.

Harold Stassen, unsuccessful candidate for the GOP nomination, was to lunch with Eisenhower today. Another would-be nominee, Gov. Earl Warren of California, is due Friday.

Found Him Guilty

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Painting two lemons on his automobile got a marine into trouble. Corp. Frank Farkas, Quantico, Va., was found guilty yesterday for violating a local regulation against deriding auto manufacturers' products. Farkas, whose home town is Flushing, N. Y., was arrested several days ago in his car at 14th and H streets, N.W. Sentence was deferred until Aug. 19 by Municipal Judge Andrew Howard. Farkas's attorney argued that the regulation was unconstitutional on the grounds that it violated the free speech amendment. But the judge found Farkas guilty.

Owner Is Awaited

Athens, Greece, Aug. 13 (AP)—Athens papers reported today that police in the small western Greece town of Agrinion still are waiting for the person who lost a bag with seven billion 600 million drachmas in it. That Greek money for something over $500,000. The newspapers said two peasants found the valise three days ago.

Gabrielson Reply Expected About Stocks Allegation

New Jersey Man Accused of Violating Trust of Woman — Not Available

Freehold, N. J., Aug. 13 (AP)—Ex-Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson today is expected to answer allegations that he illegally acquired $75,000 to $100,000 in stocks from a wealthy widow.

Gabrielson was accused of violating the trust and confidence of Mrs. Irene B. Jackson in a Superior Court suit filed here yesterday.

The suit claimed that in 1936 he induced Mrs. Jackson to transfer her stock in a New York loan company to him and neglected to tell her its true value.

Asks Return of Stock

It asked the court to rescind the contract, return the stock to the estate and enjoin Gabrielson from disposing of it.

Gabrielson, accused last year of "influence peddling" in connection with $18,500,000 in Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans, was not available for comment on the suit yesterday.

Transfer Charged

According to the suit, filed by executors of the Jackson estate, the stock transfer took place on March 5, 1936. It involved 2,400 shares of common stock in the Monroe Securities Corp., headed by Gabrielson.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Faced with statistics indicating an upsurge in crime, New York city plans to add 1,600 men to its police force. Mayor Vincent Impellitteri told a news conference yesterday the new men, to be hired between October and next June, would bring the force to its fully budgetary strength of over 20,000 At the same time, however, the mayor denied there has been an increase in crime here. He asserted that any increase shown in police department figures released Monday resulted from a new system of recording crimes, which involves listing many minor cases which formerly did not show in the statistics. The figures showed 132 homicides in the first six months of 1952 as compared with 116 in the first six months of 1951, and 22,005 burglaries in the first half of this year as compared with 14,961 the same period last year.

Will Be Witness

London, Aug. 13 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will be an official witness tomorrow when his orphaned niece, Clarissa Churchill, marries his political heir, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. The marriage will take place in London's Caxton Hall register office. Because Eden divorced his first wife on grounds of desertion two years ago, there can be no church wedding. The Church of England refuses to officiate at the marriage of a divorced person. Eden, 55, and his 32-year-old bride will leave Friday by air for a short honeymoon in Portugal.

Armed Forces Praised

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 13 (AP)—U. S. Army Secretary Frank Pace today praised Yugoslavia's armed forces as being "in superb physical condition under excellent leadership." Before leaving Belgrade this morning, Pace watched Yugoslav units in a mock attack on a hill near Belgrade. Then he flew to the summer capital at Bled to confer with Premier Marshal Tito.

Eisenhower Blasts Truman Intention

Nixon Says Adlai Plans Unfair Use

'Bosses,' He Says, Run Illinois Nominee in His Drive

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13 (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon asserted today that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, met with President Truman "to get a briefing on how he can carry forth the Truman policies."

Nixon, Republican nominee for vice president, also charged that Stevenson sought "to marshal for his campaign the great resources of the federal government which, incidentally, belong to the American people and not to any political party."

He said this is the only possible interpretation of what he termed "the unprecedented action" of Gov. Stevenson's meeting with Truman in Washington yesterday.

Prepared for Rally

In a speech prepared for a Republican rally at the Illinois State Fair—the very backyard of the Illinois governor—Nixon hammered at his theme that Stevenson is the "captive candidate" of "the bosses."

The youthful California senator compared Stevenson with Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, saying:

"The evidence continues to pile up that Adlai Stevenson is a man who, regardless of his expressed intentions, is now a helpless captive of those who made his nomination possible.

Truman Pal Gets Vote Shellacking

Arkansas Governor Loses Third Term Try in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP)—Gov. Sid McMath, a political pal of President Truman, was defeated for a third term nomination yesterday by a one-time college classmate, Judge Francis Cherry.

It was apparent early as returns from the runoff Democratic primary poured in that McMath had suffered the first setback in his rapid six-year political rise. McMath conceded his defeat and promised his support of Cherry's administration some four hours after the polls closed.

Unofficial reports from 2,040 of the state's 2,286 boxes today gave Cherry 190,542 votes to 110,675 for McMath.

McMath was the second Truman-backed Democrat to be defeated within the last two weeks. Last week J. E. (Buck) Taylor, the President's choice for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Missouri, was beaten by Stuart Symington.

Cherry Is Newcomer

Cherry, a 43-year-old Chancery Court judge from Jonesboro, is a newcomer to state politics with a new political weapon—the radio talkathon on which he answered questions from all comers and discussed issues for as long as 24 hours at a time.

He frankly credits his use of the talkathon with being the "difference" that lifted him from comparative obscurity to a close second place in the July 29 preferential primary and victory in yesterday's runoff.

Democratic nomination — such as Cherry obtained yesterday—always has meant election in this southern state.

Indecisive Session Is Reported at Capital

Stevenson Said to Have Assurances of 'Back Seat' Role by Truman, Who Says Details Are to Be Worked Out—No Reply to HST Offer

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois tightened his command over his presidential drive today, with President Truman ready to take campaign orders.

As a result of an historic—if somewhat indecisive—White House conference yesterday, Stevenson had assurances he could count on Truman as a subordinate member of his team.

And it was strictly up to the Democratic presidential nominee as to when and where he would insert Truman in the lineup. That was to be determined later in line with Truman's statement that "details will be worked out at a later date."

President Is Quoted

The President was quoted by an authoritative source as offering to undertake a whistle stop tour for the Democratic ticket, but as telling Stevenson:

"You are the one who has got to run the campaign—it is up to you."

Stevenson apparently made no direct reply.

But some of his friends believe about the last thing he now wants the President to do is to take to the whistle stops, since any such move might distract attention from the nominee's own efforts to carry his cause to the country.

Apparently left unresolved in a three-hour session publicly acclaimed by its two top participants as "very satisfactory" was a conflict in tentative speaking dates for Labor Day.

To Open Campaign

Stevenson had planned to open his campaign Sept. 1 with a speech in Detroit, where Truman began his successful 1948 drive. Truman tentatively had accepted a date to talk in Milwaukee the same day.

Although this matter was discussed at a hour's meeting at which Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the vice presidential nominee, sat in, no decision was said to have been reached.

Stevenson said on his return to Springfield, Ill., that if arrangements can be worked out "I think we both may speak on the same day."

The tentative bookings had been made without each other's knowledge.

Security Unit Says Moscow Inspired Plan Also Aimed at Churches, Other Groups

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—A Communist scheme to infiltrate the Boy Scout movement and feed its youngster-members "communism with sugar coating" was described in sworn testimony made public today by Senate investigators.

The internal security subcommittee in a report to the Senate termed it part of a Moscow-inspired plan to warp generations of teen-agers to the Kremlin's views, in the schools, colleges, churches ard youth organizations.

"I can conceive of few greater crimes," said Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.), the subcommittee chairman, in a prepared statement released with the report.

Sworn Transcript

The report includes a transcript of sworn testimony given last March 5 by Harvey M. Matusow of Dayton, Ohio, a self-styled former Communist now an agent of the Ohio Commission on Un-American Activities. The hearing was behind closed doors.

Matusow said the Communists,

Hundred Stores Participating in Big Days for Sales

Successful Time Predicted by Association for August Event in Kingston

Approximately 100 local merchants are cooperating to promote the August edition of the semi-annual Kingston Days sale on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Byron Chatham is chairman of a committee of members of the Kingston Merchants Association who are planning the sale.

Successful Sale Predicted

Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the Merchants Association, today predicted a successful sale. He revealed that retail business this summer has been extremely good, and for that reason stores now have a completely new stock of merchandise for the sale.

Wonderly also pointed out that additional parking facilities have been made available since last year, and suggested that customers make use of the free parking space in the municipal stadium, which was recently opened for that purpose.

Regular store hours will be observed Friday and Saturday, with the 9 p. m. closing on Friday.

Nurse Charged With Poison Death of Niece in Alabama

Wetumpka, Ala., Aug. 13 (AP)—A grim-faced nurse charged with poisoning her 2-year-old niece and calmly watching an autopsy on the body was called to trial here today on the first of two murder charges that could mean her own life.

Gray-haired Mrs. Earle Dennison is accused of feeding arsenic to Shirley Diann Weldon, who died May 1, and also to her tiny sister, Polly Ann.

Shirley was only a few days old when Polly Ann died two and a half years ago after a sudden, violent illness. Only the death of Shirley Diann was on the court docket for today.

The widowed, 54-year-old nurse who worked at the hospital where the child died was arrested a week later after the parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Weldon of the nearby Claud community, swore out a murder warrant.

Sheriff Lester Holley said Mrs. Dennison admitted, without a show of emotion, that she gave Shirley Diann arsenic in a soft drink and took her to the hospital when she went into convulsions. The child died five hours later.

State Toxicologist C. J. Rehling said the autopsy, performed with Mrs. Dennison present, showed arsenic.

Still suspicious about the death of Polly Ann nearly three years before, the Weldons arranged to have her remains analyzed. Dr. Rehling said she, too, had traces of the deadly metallic poison, and another warrant was signed against the aunt.

Sheriff Holley said Mrs. Dennison denied intentionally poisoning Polly Ann, but admitted leaving a salt shaker containing arsenic at the Weldon home after a visit. She said she used it to make an insect killer.

The sheriff said the woman told him, however, that she collected $5,000 on an insurance policy after the first child's death. She gave no motive for the admitted slaying of Shirley Diann, but Holley said she reportedly had two policies on her totalling $6,000.

Attack Is Sharpest on Democrats

General Says President Shows Determination to Continue Policies Through Adlai

Government 'Used'

Raises Query Whether Federal Setup Can Be Employed

Denver, Aug. 13 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower says Adlai Stevenson's White House visit shows the Truman administration is determined to continue its policies through its hand-picked successor.

Those policies, General Eisenhower charges, have carried the nation to a situation "of bewilderment, indecision and fear for the future."

In his sharpest attack on the Democrats since his own nomination for the presidency, Eisenhower declared last night in a written statement the Washington conferences between Gov. Stevenson of Illinois and administration leaders presented these "far-reaching implications:"

1. The question as to whether the President and his cabinet "can possibly contemplate using resources of the federal government to influence the judgments of voters."

Implied Decision

2. An implied decision to involve non-political officers, through the inclusion of military and national security personnel in the meetings, in a political campaign "in which they have no part."

3. "The obvious fact that the Democratic party, if given another four years to control our destinies, would not change its policies."

"The American people want a change," Eisenhower said flatly.

Then he gave a hint of issues he will pound at during his campaign by declaring.

"They want a change in order to replace corruption with honesty; reckless spending with economy; inflation with economic stability; mismanagement in foreign affairs with clear-cut policies and programs for positive peace; brazen assertions of 'inherent power' with constitutional government, both in spirit and deed."

Slap at Seizure

The last remark was an obvious slap at President Truman's seizure of the steel industry under what Truman termed the inherent powers of the government. The Supreme Court later held the seizure unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, Arthur E. Summerfield, chairman of the national Republican committee, conferred nearly around the clock with Eisenhower and his chief of staff, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. They were talking campaign details but no decisions were announced.

Harold Stassen, unsuccessful candidate for the GOP nomination, was to lunch with Eisenhower today. Another would-be nominee, Gov. Earl Warren of California, is due Friday.

Found Him Guilty

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Painting two lemons on his automobile got a marine into trouble. Corp. Frank Farkas, Quantico, Va., was found guilty yesterday for violating a local regulation against deriding auto manufacturers' products. Farkas, whose home town is Flushing, N. Y., was arrested several days ago in his car at 14th and H streets, N.W. Sentence was deferred until Aug. 19 by Municipal Judge Andrew Howard. Farkas's attorney argued that the regulation was unconstitutional on the grounds that it violated the free speech amendment. But the judge found Farkas guilty.

Owner Is Awaited

Athens, Greece, Aug. 13 (AP)—Athens papers reported today that police in the small western Greece town of Agrinion still are waiting for the person who lost a bag with seven billion 600 million drachmas in it. That Greek money for something over $500,000. The newspapers said two peasants found the valise three days ago.

Orange Has Worst Polio Outbreak

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Orange county has had "far more polio" than any other area of the state so far this year, the State Health Department reported today.

It also said that the total number of cases in the counties outside New York was 12.1 per cent higher through the week ended Aug. 9 than in the comparable 1951 period.

A total of 286 cases have been reported in the area this year, compared to 255 last year.

The department noted that only five counties have had more than nine cases since Jan. 1. These are Orange, with 54, five of them fatal; Westchester, with 47 cases including six fatalities; Nassau, 36; Suffolk, 32, and Erie, 33.

The number of deaths in other counties was not available.

Half of the cases reported in Orange county have occurred in Middletown.

Sixty-five cases were reported during the week ended Aug. 9. In the corresponding 1951 week, 64 were listed.

The worst polio year on record in the state was 1916, when 4,215 cases were reported in the counties outside New York. The second highest was 1944, when the area outside the metropolis reported 4,179 cases, 515 of them by Aug. 1.

Fourth of Medical Bill Is Paid by Uncle Sam

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—It cost Americans 12½ billion dollars for medical care in 1951 and about one-fourth of the bill was paid by government.

This estimate was reported today to members of the President's commission on the health needs of the nation.

The commission was appointed last December by President Truman to study the whole subject of public health after Congress had failed to take action on such administration proposals as a compulsory national health insurance program. The commission will make its recommendations next December.

Members of a panel that held discussions recently on medical facilities reported today the government payments include care for members of the military services and federal contributions to state and local health programs. Local and state payments also are included.

It was estimated the government now has around 22 million beneficiaries, besides those in the armed services, for which it has assumed some degree of medical care responsibility.

Await Code Suggestions

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—The State Public Service Commission is awaiting suggestions from utilities before adopting a 31-point safety code for natural gas lines in New York state. A commission spokesman said yesterday he could not say when the PSC would put the new code into effect. The safety provisions were recommended July 23 by the commission's power bureau at a public hearing called as part of the agency's continuing investigation of pipe-line safety. The proposed code would apply to pipe lines carrying gas at internal pressures in excess of 125 pounds per square inch. Generally, the code calls for all natural gas lines to comply with the American standard code for pressure piping, drafted under the auspices of the American Standards Association of New York city.

But Brother—How He Bought!

When one of the Comrades who had been enjoying America was called back home behind the iron curtain recently, he frantically protested when the news photographers at the ship aimed their cameras.

No wonder!

He had a dozen trunks, suitcases and crates bulging with things most Americans take for granted—U.S. canned goods, a television set, several radios, an automatic toaster, powder soaps, blankets, sheets, the latest electric razors—plus a lot of other things including nylons, that Russian Commissars are probably planning to "invent" next year!

Undoubtedly, when in Moscow, he explained that only "Capitalists" enjoyed these things in America.

You can be sure he didn't say that in the U.S.A. there are some 150,000,000 "capitalists" with access to thousands of brands of these good things—or that most Americans already possess many of them!

And that the only Dictator in America is the consumer, whose free choice of brands determines whether a product sells or disappears.

You, the consumer, are boss in this land of brands! Remember them as you read the advertisements in this publication—and trade at the stores where you see them featured.

It also said that the total number of cases in the counties outside New York was 12.1 per cent higher through the week ended Aug. 9 than in the comparable 1951 period.

A total of 286 cases have been reported in the area this year, compared to 255 last year.

The department noted that only five counties have had more than nine cases since Jan. 1. These are Orange, with 54, five of them fatal; Westchester, with 47 cases including six fatalities; Nassau, 36; Suffolk, 32, and Erie, 33.

The number of deaths in other counties was not available.

Half of the cases reported in Orange county have occurred in Middletown.

Sixty-five cases were reported during the week ended Aug. 9. In the corresponding 1951 week, 64 were listed.

The worst polio year on record in the state was 1916, when 4,215 cases were reported in the counties outside New York. The second highest was 1944, when the area outside the metropolis reported 4,179 cases, 515 of them by Aug. 1.

Fourth of Medical Bill Is Paid by Uncle Sam

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—It cost Americans 12½ billion dollars for medical care in 1951 and about one-fourth of the bill was paid by government.

This estimate was reported today to members of the President's commission on the health needs of the nation.

The commission was appointed last December by President Truman to study the whole subject of public health after Congress had failed to take action on such administration proposals as a compulsory national health insurance program. The commission will make its recommendations next December.

Members of a panel that held discussions recently on medical facilities reported today the government payments include care for members of the military services and federal contributions to state and local health programs. Local and state payments also are included.

It was estimated the government now has around 22 million beneficiaries, besides those in the armed services, for which it has assumed some degree of medical care responsibility.

Await Code Suggestions

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—The State Public Service Commission is awaiting suggestions from utilities before adopting a 31-point safety code for natural gas lines in New York state. A commission spokesman said yesterday he could not say when the PSC would put the new code into effect. The safety provisions were recommended July 23 by the commission's power bureau at a public hearing called as part of the agency's continuing investigation of pipe-line safety. The proposed code would apply to pipe lines carrying gas at internal pressures in excess of 125 pounds per square inch. Generally, the code calls for all natural gas lines to comply with the American standard code for pressure piping, drafted under the auspices of the American Standards Association of New York city.

But Brother—How He Bought!

When one of the Comrades who had been enjoying America was called back home behind the iron curtain recently, he frantically protested when the news photographers at the ship aimed their cameras.

No wonder!

He had a dozen trunks, suitcases and crates bulging with things most Americans take for granted—U.S. canned goods, a television set, several radios, an automatic toaster, powder soaps, blankets, sheets, the latest electric razors—plus a lot of other things including nylons, that Russian Commissars are probably planning to "invent" next year!

Undoubtedly, when in Moscow, he explained that only "Capitalists" enjoyed these things in America.

You can be sure he didn't say that in the U.S.A. there are some 150,000,000 "capitalists" with access to thousands of brands of these good things—or that most Americans already possess many of them!

And that the only Dictator in America is the consumer, whose free choice of brands determines whether a product sells or disappears.

You, the consumer, are boss in this land of brands! Remember them as you read the advertisements in this publication — and trade at the stores where you see them featured.

FINAL WEEK OF ART EXHIBIT

Kingston's Tercentennial Art Exhibition has entered its final week with a noticeable upsurge of attendance. It is evident that many local citizens who have not seen the exhibit at the George Washington School are determined to make the most of the remaining time between today and the closing at 5 p. m. on Sunday, August 17.

Most of the works have never been seen outside a metropolitan museum and a very large number of art enthusiasts have journeyed here from distant points to see the local exhibit. Through last week, fifteen states, the District of Columbia and several foreign countries were represented.

Many local visitors have been interested in the steamboat painting of James Bard, since a half dozen of his works were donated to the Senate House Museum several years ago by the late E. C. Coykendall. There also is great interest in the Thomas Cole panel since it is a companion piece to the Vanderlyn "Ariadne" in the Senate House Museum.

YALE STUDY OF MENTAL DISEASE

There are today about a half million patients in mental institutions in this country. That's one out of every 300 population.

The incidence of mental disease is about one in 20. That means one out of every 20 people now has a mental disease, has had it, or will have it.

Because mental hospitals are so overcrowded, many people suffering from mental disease cannot get in. Just how many is not definitely known.

Furthermore, according to the American Psychiatric Association, about 45 per cent of the patients in mental hospitals are in the old-age group—"with or without psychoses," an association spokesman explains.

His point is that too many old people are being placed in public mental institutions today because rising costs of living have made it impossible for their relatives to support them.

But there is another angle of the relationship between mental disease and economic status that is being explored in a trail-breaking study by a team of Yale University scientists working with support of a $78,000 grant from the United States Public Health Service.

Already the Yale team reports it has found a higher rate of deranged persons in the lower social-economic classes and more neurotics in the higher.

Also, schizophrenia, the leading mental disease, was found to occur mostly in the lower economic classes. About 40 per cent of all mental hospital patients are schizophrenics, and unfortunately for the country's welfare, the disease strikes most heavily at younger people.

While they draw few positive conclusions from their studies thus far, the scientists suggest that the large number of seriously deranged persons in the lower economic group may be because they couldn't afford to have, or continue to have, the necessary treatment, and so the diseases become progressively worse.

Most of the poorer cases studied were in state hospitals, while 60 per cent of the more well-to-do had private care.

Generally, as the economic level of the patient rose, so did the quality of the therapeutic treatment he received.

But the study has only just gotten under way, comparatively speaking. Much remains to be done in this as in other aspects of a disease which takes such a large toll of our people. The contribution of the Yale group can be an important one.

THE SERVICEMEN'S VOTE

All veterans organizations are cooperating with the American Heritage Foundation in its effort to make the servicemen's vote a part of its get-out-the-vote campaign.

Men and women serving in the Armed Forces will be able to vote by mail in the November elections if they file an application for a New York State Military Ballot not later than October 23. The applications must be in the hands of the Secretary of State in Albany on or before that date.

The right to vote by mail extends to relatives or military people if they are away from home at election time.

To facilitate the filing of applications for New York State Military Ballots the secretary of state has prepared a postage free airmail postcard for use by New Yorkers in military service.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AN APPROACH TO ELECTION

At a convention, it is all hoop-la and excitement. On the morning after the night before, the managers of election campaigns must plot a plan of action based upon factors that are complex.

So far as popularity is concerned, the candidates are almost reduced to movie stars making personal appearances. Instead of delivering a few well-written, carefully considered speeches, dealing with good domestic and international issues, they have to chase about the country on whistle stops, exhibiting themselves, shaking hands, kissing babies and producing their wives to prove something or other. It may be amusing to the people to get up at dawn to see a candidate in his bathrobe, bleary-eyed, telling them how much he loves Mudville Center—but it is not the serious business of a public debate.

The cold statistical calculation of the managers of the candidates has to do with the possibilities of elections. Presidents, be it remembered, are not directly elected by the people. Nor do the people have much choice. They are usually handed two names; sometimes a third. The choice is rarely as to who, out of the total population, would make the best President of the United States. It is rather, which of the two candidates would be least unsatisfactory. That is why practical politicians say that the people vote against, not for a candidate.

The President is elected not on a national level, but by states. Each state has the right to a specific number of votes in the Electoral College based on its membership in Congress.

Were a candidate to go only to the doubtful states, he might offend the people in the states where he is sure. He might even force such states from the sure to the doubtful column. Also, in many states, factors arise which have nothing to do with the popularity or unpopularity of a presidential nominee. A candidate for governor of the state or for United States senator may influence the vote for the President in a particular state.

So, the managers of a candidate plot their lines to see where they are likely to come out. The Democrats always counted on the 12 states of the Solid South (including Oklahoma) to give them a foundation number of electors, 136. Having these much in hand, they turned to the big city vote composed of a large number of laborers and the "minorities." Roosevelt invented the "minorities" by catering to their special interests and stimulating their special fears. Harry Truman specialized in labor groups to whom he made unusual concessions with outstanding success.

In the past, the Republican Party calculated that they could use as their foundation the agricultural areas, particularly the Middle West. When a state like New York was principally agricultural, it was generally carried by the Republicans. From the Civil War until 1936, the Republicans could always count on a solid Negro vote in the North, but Roosevelt changed that.

The Republicans lost in 1932 because of the Depression of 1929 and Prohibition. They lost in 1936 because the country was willing to give Roosevelt a second term. They should have won in 1940, but Wendell Willkie failed to make a vital issue, except the Third Term; organization Republicans, in that campaign, in many states, sat on their hands.

In 1944 and 1948, the war years, the only possible issue was the conduct of the war. The Republican Party was split between nationalists and internationalists. Many of the younger able men in the Republican Party had gone to work for the administration in Washington, liked it, stayed there, and became part of the New Deal. The Federal payroll had increased and the payroll vote, as well as subsidies to farmers and pensions for the aged, were reflected in the votes in every state.

Besides a twofold shift had taken place in the American population. First, instead of a predominantly rural people, we had changed over to an ever-increasing city population. In the cities, the process of fragmentation of our people into "minorities," into local groups of self interests and local concern, was given an importance not before known in American life.

The Republicans figure that they now have 25 governors. If they can hold those states, Eisenhower can be elected. Yet, one of those states is New York, which must stand as doubtful in the columns of both parties. There the so-called minorities hold the balance of power.

That Body of Yours

OPERATION TO RELIEVE GRIEF AND PAIN

I write from time to time about the operation known as prefrontal lobotomy, in which the nerves supplying lobes in the brain are cut. As these nerves supply the parts of the brain that control grief and depression, the patient, by operation, gets relief from two distressing emotions.

When this operation was first performed successfully in America by Drs. Freeman and Watts, and the patients freed of unbearable pain and deep grief and depression, many of these patients were left with lack of any feelings of responsibility for life's duties.

It was found that a number of these cases that underwent the operation actually returned to normal mentally and emotionally but, unfortunately, some of them did not. The question naturally arose as to how it could be known if the operation would be successful from the mental and emotional standpoint.

In the Argentine Medical Journal, Drs. E. E. Krapf and J. H. Lyonnet state, "Uncertainty of the outcome of prefrontal lobotomy, which sometimes produces personality changes, not compensated for by the improvement in conduct, led these physicians to consider the possibility of carrying out a trial lobotomy. Thus instead of cutting the nerves (lobotomy), the nerves were blocked off by procaine (novocaine) hydrochloride. Procaine had proved harmless when injected into the brain as an experiment."

Three patients with severe psychiatric (behavior) symptoms were selected for the experiment. "Two simple trepanations (cutting openings through the skull to the brain) were made under local anesthesia at the classic sites for lobotomy according to Drs. Freeman and Watts, and 4 cc. of 2 per cent procaine were injected very slowly. Improvement followed which continued for several days. The favorable results obtained from the procaine block of the nerves showed that the operation lobotomy would be successful if tried and it was carried out. The symptoms of all three patients were relieved and two were discharged directly to their homes."

However, these physicians and others now will study this nerve blocking method of treatment "and it may be that a series of prefrontal procaine injections will bring about a cure without the necessity of operation."

It in comforting to patient, his family and the physician to know beforehand that the success of the operation is assured, other things being equal.

"As Good as Gold"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Soviet satellites in Washington have a new dodge for issuing propaganda. The State Department has now forbidden Communist embassies to publish news letters, so here is the latest medium for telling about the glories of life behind the Iron Curtain.

It's an invitation by the Roumanian embassy to attend a reception in honor of the day that country came under the heel of the Red army, August 23. Here is how the invitation reads:

"On the occasion of the 5th anniversary of Roumania's liberation by the glorious Soviet army and of the overthrow of the Fascist dictatorship by the people's patriotic forces

"The Charge D'Affaires ad interim of the Roumanian people's republic

"Requests the pleasure of your company at a reception on Saturday the 23rd of August from 7 to 9 o'clock."

Note: The reception is to be held in the Roumanian embassy on Sheridan Circle, facing the Turkish embassy, one of the swank parts of town. This is the same embassy used by Queen Marie during her famed visit here in the Hoover administration. A lot of water has passed down the Potomac since then, and it will be interesting to see who attends on August 23.

Truman vs. Stevenson

Having got his man the Democratic nomination, President Truman, despite yesterday's luncheon with Adali Stevenson, finds himself more and more on the outside looking in. While he hasn't said anything about this, the palace guard have done a lot of squawking—privately.

They not only heard the report that Governor Stevenson was reluctant to come to the White House luncheon, but they know for a fact how much friction there was between Truman and Stevenson's right-hand man, Wilson Wyatt. They also know that Stephen Mitchell, the new Adlai-picked Democratic national chairman, didn't pull many punches about embarrassing the Justice Department when he served on the Chelf Investigating Committee.

The palace guard have particular reason to remember the battles with Wilson Wyatt, because they were largely responsible for them.

Inside fact is that Wyatt's forced exit from the Truman administration was about the biggest letdown a top official ever had. When he took over the job of housing expediter to build homes for veterans, Truman gave him a letter which instructed Wyatt to use: "The same daring determination and hard-hitting teamwork with which he tackled the emergency job of building the world's most powerful war machine.

Palace Guard Sabotage

But, after six months of trying to carry out this instruction, Wyatt found himself blocked at every turn by Truman's own staff. Truman's RFC director, George Allen, held back on loaning him housing money. Harry Vaughan, the President's military aide, used to sit in a corner of the President's office holding his nose and pulling an imaginary chain when Wyatt outlined plans for veterans' housing; while Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder warned Truman that Wyatt would get him into trouble with the real-estate people.

Finally, John Steelman, another White House assistant, tried to persuade Wyatt to remain on with drastically limited powers. This Wyatt refused to do and resigned.

Even here the palace guard stepped in. When the customary press release was drafted to announce Wyatt's resignation, it stated that he had asked to be relieved because he had "finished" the veterans' housing job.

"But I haven't finished by job," protested Wyatt, "and I'll stay on if I'm permitted to operate an all-out emergency program."

This did not please the palace guard at all, and for one hour Clark Clifford, then a member of the Truman personal staff, argued with Wyatt over the phrasing of his resignation. Clifford's idea was not to protect homeless veterans but to protect the man who had failed to help them.

That was the friction between the White House and the man who is now No. 1 political adviser to the new candidate of the Democratic party. No wonder some of the boys around the White House aren't happy.

Suggestion to Stevenson

A lot of people have claimed credit for helping Gov. Adlai Stevenson write a brilliant welcoming speech delivered at the Democratic convention in Chicago last month. The truth is that he wrote it all himself, though he did get one suggestion indirectly from a man now dead—Josephus Daniels, famed Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson.

When Franklin Roosevelt was President and Daniels was ambassador to Mexico, the latter wrote a letter, Jan. 1, 1936, referring to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, as follows:

"Dear Franklin:

"Here is an expression from Holmes which, if it has missed you, is so good you may find a use for it in one of your fireside talks, Holmes said.

" 'I find the great thing is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving. To reach the port of heaven, we must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it; but we must sail and not drift, nor lie at anchor.'

"New Year's greetings to you and Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Faithfully,
"JOSEPHUS DANIELS"

This letter was embodied in Carroll Kilpatrick's recent stimulating book, "Roosevelt and Daniels—a friendship in politics"; and Walter Johnson, history professor at the University of Chicago, reading the book, passed this particular quote on to Stevenson.

Thus a speech suggestion made by Joseph Daniels in 1936 to Roosevelt provided part of Governor Stevenson's speech in 1952 which helped to clinch his nomination.

Statements From Truman-Stevenson Meeting Indicate Continuation of Same Policies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 13—Continuity of policy—the Truman administration would move out on January 20 next, and the Stevenson administration would move in, and the only thing that would change would be the personalities.

This is the impression conveyed by the Truman-Stevenson meeting and the public statements thereafter.

"The meeting had been very satisfactory from my viewpoint," said President Truman afterward, and it could hardly be "satisfactory" unless the Democratic nominee is prepared to campaign in defense of the policies of the Truman administration and to pledge their continuance.

Governor Stevenson himself said afterward that he had had "a very satisfactory and reassuring and gratifying talk with the President about the campaign."

This, too, can mean only one thing—that the Democratic nominee wants Mr. Truman to campaign for him and that the two men see eye to eye on the fundamentals of the New Deal and Fair Deal which have been a part of the Democratic administration policy.

There have been some publicity efforts to make it appear that Mr. Stevenson doesn't want Mr. Truman to campaign too vigorously or in the Truman style. But this may be wishful thinking on the part of those who fear the President's campaign technique or who think Republican votes can be won for Stevenson by playing down his intimate association with Truman.

The truth is the Illinois governor will not only have to accept Truman's campaigning but he will have no way of showing his disapproval of it—if, indeed, he should think it merits disapproval. Mr. Truman is confident that he won the 1948 contest by his personal efforts with certain labor and minority groups and he is as deeply convinced that the same thing ought to be done in the present campaign as he was four years ago.

What the Truman-Stevenson meeting implies—and quite logically—is that the President is anxious that the American people give him a vote of confidence in November. Every vote for Stevenson, in effect, becomes a vote of approval of the Truman administration in much the same way that a vote against the Democratic party is a vote to repudiate the Truman policies.

The Truman record may be unpopular with Republicans and with some Democrats, but it is the basic ideology of the majority of the Democratic party and, as such, it would be political treason for Governor Stevenson to turn his back on the doctrine. If he had intended to dilute his campaign by showing disapproval of any Truman policies, he would hardly have come to Washington for such a public demonstration of unity on the White House doorstep.

The Truman-Stevenson meeting, like the Wilson-Cox meeting in 1920, gives a clear indication of the stratgey to be followed in the campaign thereafter. It means that, whether the President makes a few or many speeches, whether he covers all the points in defense of his record or only a few of them, the Democratic nominee has chosen to stand before the people on that record.

There was one bit of bad taste in connection with the Truman-Stevenson meeting. It does seem improper for Mr. Truman to drag in the high military officers and ask them to give the Democratic nominee a "briefing" on information presumably not available to the general public. There is no more reason why the Democratic nominee should be given confidential and classified information than there is to call in all the Republican and Democratic nominees for the Senate and the House and give them the same data—which, of course, will not be done.

Nor is this to be remedied by calling in the Republican presidential nominee and "briefing" him, as has been suggested. Both nominees are private citizens. They are not entitled to any more information about military intelligence than is any other private citizen.

The presence of military officials at the political luncheon makes it appear that the military officials are an adjunct of the national political campaign. It would have been far better from the standpoint of nonpartisanship if they had not been summoned to the White House to meet the Democratic nominee.

If any part of the government should be kept out of politics, it is the military department. Republican sons as well as sons of Democrats are dying in the far eastern war and many, many thousands more from both political parties are about to be drafted to carry on the undeclared war in Korea.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Our rotten State Department and our rotten economic cooperation administration in Europe which has now phased away into the rotten Mutual Security Administration, certainly have been giving that monumental sucker, the American man, the works.

The term "phased away" is bureaucratic jargon. Many of these parasites are brows from Harvard but some of their terms would make an ordinary eighth-grade graduate retch with disgust. When one of their rackets is exposed by some reported or congressional committee and they are winding it up, they say it is phasing out, using phase as a verb.

There is a thin, meandering line of descent leading from Chinaboy Luce's jerked English down through the Pentagon, where the terms "policy level," "echelon" and other such fungi sprouted, and now into radio and television. Chinaboy's pidgin-American spread through our journalism like a stutter through a kindergarten so that nowadays it is standard newspaperese to bend a sentence in the middle and lead off with a verb, and hoke up godawfuls 'combining noun and a verb into an adjective. It was a lead on a ballgame which spoke of a sensation-jammed ninth inning.

This economic cooperation administration was a squanderlust outfit operated by Paul Hoffman, an automobile salesman who was widely mistaken for a conservative businessman for a long time when we of the press should have been drawing beads on him. Later he horned into the Ford Foundation where he can do as he pleases with a power of money which could shake this country down to bed-rock if Hoffman ever takes a notion. And now he bobs up in the Eisenhower freak-show.

We Americans who are going without necessities and can't lay up a dollar for our own rainy days to keep the squanderbund in money over there, have no idea what those phoneys are doing to us. We stupidly took it for granted that their mission, by and large, was to get European industries cranked up again and then pull out.

We never were worse mistaken. Their main idea was to impose the American union rackets on European labor, using American professional unioneers to do the actual dirty work. They didn't tell us what they were up to and I doubt that more than a handful of Americans at home knew anything about this deal until I went blundering into the midst of the conspiracy last winter.

I told you recently the fantastic story of a class of European urion fakers following a chambermaid around an Italian hotel watching her make beds and change towels and so forth, all under the auspices of our majestic American State Department. Then I reported the proud boast of Hoffman's ECA that another of these leeches of our butted in and compelled us American taxpayers to pay a bonus to a lot of Greek laborers for building a railroad in a hurry to save their own country from invasion by the Russians.

Now, out of one of their own expensive pamphlets, published in the English language for circulation in Europe by the office of the special representative of the ECA in Paris, I lift the impudent boast of a union parasite who was asked what the American workman does when a union decides to keep him away from his job. This magazine, paid for by millions of Americans who hate the filthy union racket, reports that an ECA man was answering questions at a union meeting in Belgium.

"One of the unionists asked, 'what do you do in the United States if a plant is on strike and the men who do not belong to the union try to cross the picket-lines?' " this document says.

" 'Well,' said the labor man, a veteran of U. S. picket lines, 'they just don't get in.' The point of his answer wasn't missed by the Belgian unionists. Within a few minutes, a small part of the bloody, inch-by-inch battle for U. S. labor gains was told. Suspicion grows less with every visit of U. S. labor groups and with every visit of European workers' teams to the States. FINAL WEEK OF ART EXHIBIT

Kingston's Tercentennial Art Exhibition has entered its final week with a noticeable upsurge of attendance. It is evident that many local citizens who have not seen the exhibit at the George Washington School are determined to make the most of the remaining time between today and the closing at 5 p. m. on Sunday, August 17.

Most of the works have never been seen outside a metropolitan museum and a very large number of art enthusiasts have journeyed here from distant points to see the local exhibit. Through last week, fifteen states, the District of Columbia and several foreign countries were represented.

Many local visitors have been interested in the steamboat painting of James Bard, since a half dozen of his works were donated to the Senate House Museum several years ago by the late E. C. Coykendall. There also is great interest in the Thomas Cole panel since it is a companion piece to the Vanderlyn "Ariadne" in the Senate House Museum.

YALE STUDY OF MENTAL DISEASE

There are today about a half million patients in mental institutions in this country. That's one out of every 300 population.

The incidence of mental disease is about one in 20. That means one out of every 20 people now has a mental disease, has had it, or will have it.

Because mental hospitals are so overcrowded, many people suffering from mental disease cannot get in. Just how many is not definitely known.

Furthermore, according to the American Psychiatric Association, about 45 per cent of the patients in mental hospitals are in the old-age group—"with or without psychoses," an association spokesman explains.

His point is that too many old people are being placed in public mental institutions today because rising costs of living have made it impossible for their relatives to support them.

But there is another angle of the relationship between mental disease and economic status that is being explored in a trail-breaking study by a team of Yale University scientists working with support of a $78,000 grant from the United States Public Health Service.

Already the Yale team reports it has found a higher rate of deranged persons in the lower social-economic classes and more neurotics in the higher.

Also, schizophrenia, the leading mental disease, was found to occur mostly in the lower economic classes. About 40 per cent of all mental hospital patients are schizophrenics, and unfortunately for the country's welfare, the disease strikes most heavily at younger people.

While they draw few positive conclusions from their studies thus far, the scientists suggest that the large number of seriously deranged persons in the lower economic group may be because they couldn't afford to have, or continue to have, the necessary treatment, and so the diseases become progressively worse.

Most of the poorer cases studied were in state hospitals, while 60 per cent of the more well-to-do had private care.

Generally, as the economic level of the patient rose, so did the quality of the therapeutic treatment he received.

But the study has only just gotten under way, comparatively speaking. Much remains to be done in this as in other aspects of a disease which takes such a large toll of our people. The contribution of the Yale group can be an important one.

THE SERVICEMEN'S VOTE

All veterans organizations are cooperating with the American Heritage Foundation in its effort to make the servicemen's vote a part of its get-out-the-vote campaign.

Men and women serving in the Armed Forces will be able to vote by mail in the November elections if they file an application for a New York State Military Ballot not later than October 23. The applications must be in the hands of the Secretary of State in Albany on or before that date.

The right to vote by mail extends to relatives or military people if they are away from home at election time.

To facilitate the filing of applications for New York State Military Ballots the secretary of state has prepared a postage free air-mail postcard for use by New Yorkers in military service.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AN APPROACH TO ELECTION

At a convention, it is all hoop-la and excitement. On the morning after the night before, the managers of election campaigns must plot a plan of action based upon factors that are complex.

So far as popularity is concerned, the candidates are almost reduced to movie stars making personal appearances. Instead of delivering a few well-written, carefully considered speeches, dealing with good domestic and international issues, they have to chase about the country on whistle stops, exhibiting themselves, shaking hands, kissing babies and producing their wives to prove something or other. It may be amusing to the people to get up at dawn to see a candidate in his bathrobe, bleary-eyed, telling them how much he loves Mudville Center—but it is not the serious business of a public debate.

The cold statistical calculation of the managers of the candidates has to do with the possibilities of elections. Presidents, be it remembered, are not directly elected by the people. Nor do the people have much choice. They are usually handed two names; sometimes a third. The choice is rarely as to who, out of the total population, would make the best President of the United States. It is rather, which of the two candidates would be least unsatisfactory. That is why practical politicians say that the people vote against, not for a candidate.

The President is elected not on a national level, but by states. Each state has the right to a specific number of votes in the Electoral College based on its membership in Congress.

Were a candidate to go only to the doubtful states, he might offend the people in the states where he is sure. He might even force such states from the sure to the doubtful column. Also, in many states, factors arise which have nothing to do with the popularity or unpopularity of a presidential nominee. A candidate for governor of the state or for United States senator may influence the vote for the President in a particular state.

So, the managers of a candidate plot their lines to see where they are likely to come out. The Democrats always counted on the 12 states of the Solid South (including Oklahoma) to give them a foundation number of electors, 136. Having these much in hand, they turned to the big city vote composed of a large number of laborers and the "minorities." Roosevelt invented the "minorities" by catering to their special interests and stimulating their special fears. Harry Truman specialized in labor groups to whom he made unusual concessions with outstanding success.

In the past, the Republican Party calculated that they could use as their foundation the agricultural areas, particularly the Middle West. When a state like New York was principally agricultural, it was generally carried by the Republicans. From the Civil War until 1936, the Republicans could always count on a solid Negro vote in the North, but Roosevelt changed that.

The Republicans lost in 1932 because of the Depression of 1929 and Prohibition. They lost in 1936 because the country was willing to give Roosevelt a second term. They should have won in 1940, but Wendell Willkie failed to make a vital issue, except the Third Term; organization Republicans, in that campaign, in many states, sat on their hands.

In 1944 and 1948, the war years, the only possible issue was the conduct of the war. The Republican Party was split between nationalists and internationalists. Many of the younger able men in the Republican Party had gone to work for the administration in Washington, liked it, stayed there, and became part of the New Deal. The Federal payroll had increased and the payroll vote, as well as subsidies to farmers and pensions for the aged, were reflected in the votes in every state.

Besides a twofold shift had taken place in the American population. First, instead of a predominantly rural people, we had changed over to an ever-increasing city population. In the cities, the process of fragmentation of our people into "minorities," into local groups of self interests and local concern, was given an importance not before known in American life.

The Republicans figure that they now have 25 governors. If they can hold those states, Eisenhower can be elected. Yet, one of those states is New York, which must stand as doubtful in the columns of both parties. There the so-called minorities hold the balance of power.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

OPERATION TO RELIEVE GRIEF AND PAIN

I write from time to time about the operation known as prefrontal lobotomy, in which the nerves supplying lobes in the brain are cut. As these nerves supply the parts of the brain that control grief and depression, the patient, by operation, gets relief from two distressing emotions.

When this operation was first performed successfully in America by Drs. Freeman and Watts, and the patients freed of unbearable pain and deep grief and depression, many of these patients were left with lack of any feelings of responsibility for life's duties.

It was found that a number of these cases that underwent the operation actually returned to normal mentally and emotionally but, unfortunately, some of them did not. The question naturally arose as to how it could be known if the operation would be successful from the mental and emotional standpoint.

In the Argentine Medical Journal, Drs. E. E. Krapf and J. H. Lyonnet state, "Uncertainty of the outcome of prefrontal lobotomy, which sometimes produces personality changes, not compensated for by the improvement in conduct, led these physicians to consider the possibility of carrying out a trial lobotomy. Thus instead of cutting the nerves (lobotomy), the nerves were blocked off by procaine (novocaine) hydrochloride. Procaine had proved harmless when injected into the brain as an experiment."

Three patients with severe psychiatric (behavior) symptoms were selected for the experiment. "Two simple trepanations (cutting openings through the skull to the brain) were made under local anesthesia at the classic sites for lobotomy according to Drs. Freeman and Watts, and 4 cc. of 2 per cent procaine were injected very slowly. Improvement followed which continued for several days. The favorable results obtained from the procaine block of the nerves showed that the operation lobotomy would be successful if tried and it was carried out. The symptoms of all three patients were relieved and two were discharged directly to their homes."

However, these physicians and others now will study this nerve blocking method of treatment "and it may be that a series of prefrontal procaine injections will bring about a cure without the necessity of operation."

It in comforting to patient, his family and the physician to know beforehand that the success of the operation is assured, other things being equal.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Soviet satellites in Washington have a new dodge for issuing propaganda. The State Department has now forbidden Communist embassies to publish news letters, so here is the latest medium for telling about the glories of life behind the Iron Curtain.

It's an invitation by the Roumanian embassy to attend a reception in honor of the day that country came under the heel of the Red army, August 23. Here is how the invitation reads:

"On the occasion of the 5th anniversary of Roumania's liberation by the glorious Soviet army and of the overthrow of the Fascist dictatorship by the people's patriotic forces

"The Charge D'Affaires ad interim of the Roumanian people's republic

"Requests the pleasure of your company at a reception on Saturday the 23rd of August from 7 to 9 o'clock."

Note: The reception is to be held in the Roumanian embassy on Sheridan Circle, facing the Turkish embassy, one of the swank parts of town. This is the same embassy used by Queen Marie during her famed visit here in the Hoover administration. A lot of water has passed down the Potomac since then, and it will be interesting to see who attends on August 23.

Truman vs. Stevenson

Having got his man the Democratic nomination, President Truman, despite yesterday's luncheon with Adali Stevenson, finds himself more and more on the outside looking in. While he hasn't said anything about this, the palace guard have done a lot of squawking—privately.

They not only heard the report that Governor Stevenson was reluctant to come to the White House luncheon, but they know for a fact how much friction there was between Truman and Stevenson's right-hand man, Wilson Wyatt. They also know that Stephen Mitchell, the new Adlai-picked Democratic national chairman, didn't pull many punches about embarrassing the Justice Department when he served on the Chelf Investigating Committee.

The palace guard have particular reason to remember the battles with Wilson Wyatt, because they were largely responsible for them.

Inside fact is that Wyatt's forced exit from the Truman administration was about the biggest letdown a top official ever had. When he took over the job of housing expediter to build homes for veterans, Truman gave him a letter which instructed Wyatt to use: "The same daring determination and hard-hitting teamwork with which he tackled the emergency job of building the world's most powerful war machine.

Palace Guard Sabotage

But, after six months of trying to carry out this instruction, Wyatt found himself blocked at every turn by Truman's own staff. Truman's RFC director, George Allen, held back on loaning him housing money. Harry Vaughan, the President's military aide, used to sit in a corner of the President's office holding his nose and pulling an imaginary chain when Wyatt outlined plans for veterans' housing; while Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder warned Truman that Wyatt would get him into trouble with the real-estate people.

Finally, John Steelman, another White House assistant, tried to persuade Wyatt to remain on with drastically limited powers. This Wyatt refused to do and resigned.

Even here the palace guard stepped in. When the customary press release was drafted to announce Wyatt's resignation, it stated that he had asked to be relieved because he had "finished" the veterans' housing job.

"But I haven't finished by job," protested Wyatt, "and I'll stay on if I'm permitted to operate an all-out emergency program."

This did not please the palace guard at all, and for one hour Clark Clifford, then a member of the Truman personal staff, argued with Wyatt over the phrasing of his resignation. Clifford's idea was not to protect homeless veterans but to protect the man who had failed to help them.

That was the friction between the White House and the man who is now No. 1 political adviser to the new candidate of the Democratic party. No wonder some of the boys around the White House aren't happy.

Suggestion to Stevenson

A lot of people have claimed credit for helping Gov. Adlai Stevenson write a brilliant welcoming speech delivered at the Democratic convention in Chicago last month. The truth is that he wrote it all himself, though he did get one suggestion indirectly from a man now dead—Josephus Daniels, famed Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson.

When Franklin Roosevelt was President and Daniels was ambassador to Mexico, the latter wrote a letter, Jan. 1, 1936, referring to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, as follows:

"Dear Franklin:

"Here is an expression from Holmes which, if it has missed you, is so good you may find a use for it in one of your fireside talks, Holmes said.

"'I find the great thing is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving. To reach the port of heaven, we must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it; but we must sail and not drift, nor lie at anchor.'

"New Year's greetings to you and Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Faithfully,
"JOSEPHUS DANIELS"

This letter was embodied in Carroll Kilpatrick's recent stimulating book, "Roosevelt and Daniels—a friendship in politics"; and Walter Johnson, history professor at the University of Chicago, reading the book, passed this particular quote on to Stevenson.

Thus a speech suggestion made by Joseph Daniels in 1936 to Roosevelt provided part of Governor Stevenson's speech in 1952 which helped to clinch his nomination.

Statements From Truman-Stevenson Meeting Indicate Continuation of Same Policies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 13—Continuity of policy—the Truman administration would move out on January 20 next, and the Stevenson administration would move in, and the only thing that would change would be the personalities.

This is the impression conveyed by the Truman-Stevenson meeting and the public statements thereafter.

"The meeting had been very satisfactory from my viewpoint," said President Truman afterward, and it could hardly be "satisfactory" unless the Democratic nominee is prepared to campaign in defense of the policies of the Truman administration and to pledge their continuance.

Governor Stevenson himself said afterward that he had had "a very satisfactory and reassuring and gratifying talk with the President about the campaign."

This, too, can mean only one thing—that the Democratic nominee wants Mr. Truman to campaign for him and that the two men see eye to eye on the fundamentals of the New Deal and Fair Deal which have been a part of the Democratic administration policy.

There have been some publicity efforts to make it appear that Mr. Stevenson doesn't want Mr. Truman to campaign too vigorously or in the Truman style. But this may be wishful thinking on the part of those who fear the President's campaign technique or who think Republican votes can be won for Stevenson by playing down his intimate association with Truman.

The truth is the Illinois governor will not only have to accept Truman's campaigning but he will have no way of showing his disapproval of it—if, indeed, he should think it merits disapproval. Mr. Truman is confident that he won the 1948 contest by his personal efforts with certain labor and minority groups and he is as deeply convinced that the same thing ought to be done in the present campaign as he was four years ago.

What the Truman-Stevenson meeting implies—and quite logically—is that the President is anxious that the American people give him a vote of confidence in November. Every vote for Stevenson, in effect, becomes a vote of approval of the Truman administration in much the same way that a vote against the Democratic party is a vote to repudiate the Truman policies.

The Truman record may be unpopular with Republicans and with some Democrats, but it is the basic ideology of the majority of the Democratic party and, as such, it would be political treason for Governor Stevenson to turn his back on the doctrine. If he had intended to dilute his campaign by showing disapproval of any Truman policies, he would hardly have come to Washington for such a public demonstration of unity on the White House doorstep.

The Truman-Stevenson meeting, like the Wilson-Cox meeting in 1920, gives a clear indication of the strategy to be followed in the campaign thereafter. It means that, whether the President makes a few or many speeches, whether he covers all the points in defense of his record or only a few of them, the Democratic nominee has chosen to stand before the people on that record.

There was one bit of bad taste in connection with the Truman-Stevenson meeting. It does seem improper for Mr. Truman to drag in the high military officers and ask them to give the Democratic nominee a "briefing" on information presumably not available to the general public. There is no more reason why the Democratic nominee should be given confidential and classified information than there is to call in all the Republican and Democratic nominees for the Senate and the House and give them the same data—which, of course, will not be done.

Nor is this to be remedied by calling in the Republican presidential nominee and "briefing" him, as has been suggested. Both nominees are private citizens. They are not entitled to any more information about military intelligence than is any other private citizen.

The presence of military officials at the political luncheon makes it appear that the military officials are an adjunct of the national political campaign. It would have been far better from the standpoint of nonpartisanship if they had not been summoned to the White House to meet the Democratic nominee.

If any part of the government should be kept out of politics, it is the military department. Republican sons as well as sons of Democrats are dying in the far eastern war and many, many thousands more from both political parties are about to be drafted to carry on the undeclared war in Korea.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Our rotten State Department and our rotten economic cooperation administration in Europe which has now phased away into the rotten Mutual Security Administration, certainly have been giving that monumental sucker, the American man, the works.

The term "phased away" is bureaucratic jargon. Many of these parasites are brows from Harvard but some of their terms would make an ordinary eighth-grade graduate retch with disgust. When one of their rackets is exposed by some reported or congressional committee and they are winding it up, they say it is phasing out, using phase as a verb.

There is a thin, meandering line of descent leading from Chinaboy Luce's jerked English down through the Pentagon, where the terms "policy level," "echelon" and other such fungi sprouted, and now into radio and television. Chinaboy's pidgin-American spread through our journalism like a stutter through a kindergarten so that nowadays it is standard newspaperese to bend a sentence in the middle and lead off with a verb, and hoke up godawfuls combining noun and a verb into an adjective. It was a lead on a ball-game which spoke of a sensation-jammed ninth inning.

This economic cooperation administration was a squanderlust outfit operated by Paul Hoffman, an automobile salesman who was widely mistaken for a conservative businessman for a long time when we of the press should have been drawing beads on him. Later he horned into the Ford Foundation where he can do as he pleases with a power of money which could shake this country down to bed-rock if Hoffman ever takes a notion. And now he bobs up in the Eisenhower freak-show.

We Americans who are going without necessities and can't lay up a dollar for our own rainy days to keep the squanderbund in money over there, have no idea what those phoneys are doing to us. We stupidly took it for granted that their mission, by and large, was to get European industries cranked up again and then pull out.

We never were worse mistaken. Their main idea was to impose the American union rackets on European labor, using American professional unioneers to do the actual dirty work. They didn't tell us what they were up to and I doubt that more than a handful of Americans at home knew anything about this deal until I went blundering into the midst of the conspiracy last winter.

I told you recently the fantastic story of a class of European union fakers following a chambermaid around an Italian hotel watching her make beds and change towels and so forth, all under the auspices of our majestic American State Department. Then I reported the proud boast of Hoffman's ECA that another of these leeches of our butted in and compelled us American taxpayers to pay a bonus to a lot of Greek laborers for building a railroad in a hurry to save their own country from invasion by the Russians.

Now, out of one of their own expensive pamphlets, published in the English language for circulation in Europe by the office of the special representative of the ECA in Paris, I lift the impudent boast of a union parasite who was asked what the American workman does when a union decides to keep him away from his job. This magazine, paid for by millions of Americans who hate the filthy union racket, reports that an ECA man was answering questions at a union meeting in Belgium.

"One of the unionists asked, 'what do you do in the United States if a plant is on strike and the men who do not belong to the union try to cross the picket-lines?' " this document says.

"'Well,' said the labor man, a veteran of U. S. picket-lines, 'they just don't get in.' The point of his answer wasn't missed by the Belgian unionists. Within a few minutes, a small part of the bloody, inch-by-inch battle for U. S. labor gains was told. Suspicion grows less with every visit of U. S. labor groups and with every visit of European workers' teams to the States. The air has been cleared through the efforts of ECA labor men to 'channel' (another of those geechee words) benefits of the Marshall plan to the worker and through a labor information program which reports and spreads 'straight' labor news."

This is what we have been paying for through our income taxes and this is the underhanded scheme that was played on us by Eisenhower's forward-looking bureaucrat, Paul Hoffman, now of the Ford Foundation."

The Mature Parent

Children Rate Us According to Value We Put on Ourselves

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last spring, Mr. Davis lost several thousand dollars in a poor investment. As a result, his son Jack has had to plan to enter the state university this fall instead of the expensive private college three of his friends are going to.

Jack has deeply resented this change of plan. Since it was made, he has had very little to say to his father.

The other night, when he came home from a date with his crowd, he said goodnight to his mother and went upstairs, pointedly ignoring his father.

When his door had slammed, Mrs. Davis looked at her husband and began to cry. She said, "You can't blame the boy, Ed. His heart was set on the other school. He's only got one life to live. Isn't there anything you can do?"

Mr. Davis decided there was. The next morning he went down to the bank and took out a mortgage on his home. Though his head throbbed with one of his blinding headaches, though his hand shook as he signed the papers, it never occurred to him to throw down his pen and say, "No, I am not going to mortgage my future for an insufficient reason! I, too, have only one life to live!"

This is because Mr. Davis has got into the habit of depreciating himself. It has betrayed him into giving his son a bad example for the solution of financial mistakes. It has led him to conspire with that son's irresponsibility.

If he had not got into this wicked habit, he would have said to his boy, "You go to state college this term and give mother and me a chance to save again. Back me up—and we'll all pull out of this doldrum together."

He is incapable of defending his right to live the one life he's been given as he really wants to live it because he is firmly convinced that parents are only good to serve as fuel on the altar of sacrifice for children.

This kind of self-contempt lurks back of much of our over-anxiety to insure their futures at the cost of our own. It is doubt of our own growth, our own progress that impels us to over-extend our strength to cater to young irresponsible demands.

It is self-depreciation that whispers to us, "You've had your chance and muffed it. You better bet on somebody else now. As a person that counts, you're done."

Like other people, children rate us according to the value we put upon ourselves. If we infect them with contempt for our worth, if we panic with fear of our ability to patiently rectify our mistakes, if we do not trust in the steady unfoldment of our creative powers, they will write us off as dead ducks, too.

Like any other creditor who smells bankruptcy in the wind, they will besiege us with complaints and demands.

The day you and I remember that we are equally the children of God, along with our boys and girls, will be a fine day for them. The day we can love enough to trust our own tomorrows as faithfully as we trust theirs, we will begin to produce happier, more confident, more grateful and more loving sons and daughters.

The best university in the world will not be able to undo the hurt done to Jack Davis by his parents' false love. He will have to wait for life's stern instruction to teach him that no man profits by the enslavement of another.

Teenagers Are Held

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Henry Agard, 16, and Anthony Simo, 17, will appear in court Monday, to answer charges of slaying a Brooklyn Heights man. Police said the teenagers, both of Brooklyn, admitted they rang the doorbell of Marcus Harrelson, 26, Friday night and shot him in the stomach a few moments after he came to the door. Harrelson, police said, met the boys on a riverfront promenade last Wednesday night and brought them to his apartment Thursday. When he refused to meet them the next night, police said, they went to his apartment in an attempt to extort money. They were ordered held without bail yesterday.

Anti-Trust Charges Dismissed in Court

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Anti-trust charges against a Scarsdale businessman were dismissed in Federal Court yesterday because he had given up several interlocking directorships.

John M. Hancock was sued by the Department of Justice last February under the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

The government charged him with holding interlocking directorships in several big companies which were competitors.

The act prohibits such interlocking directorships in competing firms with capital assets of one million dollars or more.

Judge Edward A. Conger said in his decision that Hancock had failed to stand for reelection as a director of the Kroger Company of Cincinnati.

Conger said Hancock had also resigned directorships in S. H. Kress and Company and Bond Stores, Inc.

He retained directorships in the Jewel Tea Company, of Barrington, Ill., the W. T. Grant Company and Sears Roebuck and Company.

Eagles Hold Convention

The Mature Parent

Children Rate Us According to Value We Put on Ourselves

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last spring, Mr. Davis lost several thousand dollars in a poor investment. As a result, his son Jack has had to plan to enter the state university this fall instead of the expensive private college three of his friends are going to.

Jack has deeply resented this change of plan. Since it was made, he has had very little to say to his father.

The other night, when he came home from a date with his crowd, he said goodnight to his mother and went upstairs, pointedly ignoring his father.

When his door had slammed, Mrs. Davis looked at her husband and began to cry. She said, "You can't blame the boy, Ed. His heart was set on the other school. He's only got one life to live. Isn't there anything you can do?"

Mr. Davis decided there was. The next morning he went down to the bank and took out a mortgage on his home. Though his head throbbed with one of his blinding headaches, though his hand shook as he signed the papers, it never occurred to him to throw down his pen and say, "No, I am not going to mortgage my future for an insufficient reason! I, too, have only one life to live!"

This is because Mr. Davis has got into the habit of depreciating himself. It has betrayed him into giving his son a bad example for the solution of financial mistakes. It has led him to conspire with that son's irresponsibility.

If he had not got into this wicked habit, he would have said to his boy, "You go to state college this term and give mother and me a chance to save again. Back me up—and we'll all pull out of this doldrum together."

He is incapable of defending his right to live the one life he's been given as he really wants to live it because he is firmly convinced that parents are only good to serve as fuel on the altar of sacrifice for children.

This kind of self-contempt lurks back of much of our over-anxiety to insure their futures at the cost of our own. It is doubt of our own growth, our own progress that impels us to over-extend our strength to cater to young irresponsible demands.

It is self-depreciation that whispers to us, "You've had your chance and muffed it. You better bet on somebody else now. As a person that counts, you're done."

Like other people, children rate us according to the value we put upon ourselves. If we infect them with contempt for our worth, if we panic with fear of our ability to patiently rectify our mistakes, if we do not trust in the steady unfoldment of our creative powers, they will write us off as dead ducks, too.

Like any other creditor who smells bankruptcy in the wind, they will besiege us with complaints and demands.

The day you and I remember that we are equally the children of God, along with our boys and girls, will be a fine day for them. The day we can love enough to trust our own tomorrows as faithfully as we trust theirs, we will begin to produce happier, more confident, more grateful and more loving sons and daughters.

The best university in the world will not be able to undo the hurt done to Jack Davis by his parents' false love. He will have to wait for life's stern instruction to teach him that no man profits by the enslavement of another.

Teenagers Are Held

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Henry Agard, 16, and Anthony Simo, 17, will appear in court Monday, to answer charges of slaying a Brooklyn Heights man. Police said the teenagers, both of Brooklyn, admitted they rang the doorbell of Marcus Harrelson, 26, Friday night and shot him in the stomach a few moments after he came to the door. Harrelson, police said, met the boys on a riverfront promenade last Wednesday night and brought them to his apartment Thursday. When he refused to meet them the next night, police said, they went to his apartment in an attempt to extort money. They were ordered held without bail yesterday.

Anti-Trust Charges Dismissed in Court

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Anti-trust charges against a Scarsdale businessman were dismissed in Federal Court yesterday because he had given up several interlocking directorships.

John M. Hancock was sued by the Department of Justice last February under the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

The government charged him with holding interlocking directorships in several big companies which were competitors.

The act prohibits such interlocking directorships in competing firms with capital assets of one million dollars or more.

Judge Edward A. Conger said in his decision that Hancock had failed to stand for reelection as a director of the Kroger Company of Cincinnati.

Conger said Hancock had also resigned directorships in S. H. Kress and Company and Bond Stores, Inc.

He retained directorships in the Jewel Tea Company, of Barrington, Ill., the W. T. Grant Company and Sears Roebuck and Company.

Mizel Says Scouting Main Path to Good Citizenship

The $23,000 goal of the current Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, fund drive will enable the Scouting program to be brought to the 1,663 boys registered in packs and troops, it was explained today by Maynard Mizel, general campaign chairman.

Pointing out that the council's "overhead" is very low, Mizel said that it amounts to about $15 per boy at the present enrollment.

"Every effort is being made to increase this enrollment. As membership increases, naturally the amount of overhead per boy will decrease," he added.

At present, there are 20 locations in the two counties—Ulster and Greene—in which the council feels there is a need for Scouting and in which the council is attempting to obtain sponsoring organizations.

Contrast in Costs

"You may be interested in knowing that when boys get into trouble it costs you as taxpayers approximately $1,000 per boy per year to try to straighten them out and set them on the path of good citizenship," Mizel said. "Compare this with our campaign of $15 per boy to teach good citizenship and then ask yourself which is the better of the two."

The money is used to teach boys to be good citizens, to be honest, loyal, and to serve their communities, he said. It teaches them to be self-reliant, to think for themselves and to take care of themselves under any and all conditions.

"In short, what we are doing is preparing these boys to carry on as American citizens when it comes time for us oldsters to bequeath to them the welfare of this great country which we all love," Mizel said.

Of the goal of $23,000, only $250 goes to the national headquarters, he pointed out, the remainder being used locally. He added that the amount sent to national headquarters "comes back to us in the way of material, services and instruction."

Illustrates Point

Mizel told this story, one of his favorites, to illustrate the demand for scouting: "A short time ago a man moved into an Ulster county community. He placed a small advertisement in the local paper, saying that he would meet with any boys who wanted to be Scouts at his home on a Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Thirty-five boys showed up, and not expecting anything like that he had not prepared any program. So he took them on a hike, during which they made plans for a troop. That troop has been registered, is now functioning and doing an excellent job."

Rip Van Winkle Council's professional staff "is very small considering the fact that this council takes care of two counties," Mizel said. There is a scout executive, one assistant executive, and two office girls. They send out all notices of district and special meetings, keep all the records, furnish the awards for achievement, start new troops, run educational programs for scout leaders and assistants, educate sponsoring organizations, supervise the operation of Camp Tri-mount, and do other related duties, he said.

Mizel also extended an invitation to the public to visit Camp Tri-Mount at East Jewett. Campers are charged only for their food and materials used. The camp maintenance and operation costs in addition comes from the finance drive. An item of $1,000 is included in the budget for upkeep of property and for hiring of camp staff.

Sheriff Warns On Blasting Caps

The warning, "Don't touch a blasting cap," was sounded today by Sheriff Cluett Schantz in launching a county-wide safety campaign to protect children from blinding, maiming and injuring accidents.

The drive is being pressed locally at the request of the National Sheriff's Association in cooperation with the Institute of Makers of Explosives.

Blasting caps are shiny copper or aluminum tubes about as big around as a pencil and from one and one-half to five inches long.

Sensitive explosives in caps can explode at the slightest shock, the sheriff said, and the burst scatters sharp bits of metal that can put out the eyes or tear a hand or foot.

Asks Notification

"When you find a cap that has gone astray or been stolen, tell me, one of my deputies, a policeman or the nearest adult," Sheriff Schantz urged.

Posters illustrating various kinds of caps are being distributed to local schools, playgrounds and public libraries.

Users of caps on such jobs as excavating, building, farm land clearing and construction were warned by the sheriff to keep the caps and other explosives "under strong lock and key."

Jacoby on Canasta

Multiple Answer for This Query

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When the opponents capture the first large discard pile, your side must concentrate on playing for out, If you manage to meld out quickly, you may even score a small profit on the hand; but if it takes you a long time to meld out, your opponents may run up a very big score.

In this situation, your opponents must be guided by what they think you can do. If they think you can meld out quickly, they must unload most of their own melds. But if they think you are having trouble, they can afford to take their time and thus keep control of the discard pile.

This sometimes gives you the chance to deceive the opponents. You may be very nearly out, but you may find a way to persuade the enemy that you are having trouble. Then you will catch them with most of their cards unmelded.

For example, suppose the opponents pick up a huge discard pile and meld very little of it, hoping for a big score. Your partner immediately makes the initial meld from his hand with A-A-2 and K-K-K. At your next turn you draw from the stock pile and then hold:

2-2 A-A K J 10 5-5-5-5-5

What should you do?

You can, if you choose, make the canasta of aces by adding your two aces and two deuces. Or you can put down your fives with the two deuces. You can make all sorts of melds, discarding either the jack or the ten and leaving yourself with just one card.

But if you do any such thing, the cat will be out of the bag. The opponents will unload hastily, and will probably make a nice profit even if you meld out fairly quickly.

Your best course is to put down only three of the fives. You might also add just one ace to the meld of aces. And then you discard either the jack or the ten.

This play makes it look as though you cannot make a four-card base. You're doing the best you can, of course, by putting down a three-card meld, but you're obviously very far from out. At any rate, that's what the opponents will surely believe.

Now they can afford to keep their cards unmelded, waiting for you to have discard trouble. And of course you will let them have it right between the eyes as soon as you can draw any ace, king, five, or wild card.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Mizel Says Scouting Main Path to Good Citizenship

The $23,000 goal of the current Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, fund drive will enable the Scouting program to be brought to the 1,663 boys registered in packs and troops, it was explained today by Maynard Mizel, general campaign chairman.

Pointing out that the council's "overhead" is very low, Mizel said that it amounts to about $15 per boy at the present enrollment.

"Every effort is being made to increase this enrollment. As membership increases, naturally the amount of overhead per boy will decrease," he added.

At present, there are 20 locations in the two counties—Ulster and Greene—in which the council feels there is a need for Scouting and in which the council is attempting to obtain sponsoring organizations.

Contrast in Costs

"You may be interested in knowing that when boys get into trouble it costs you as taxpayers approximately $1,000 per boy per year to try to straighten them out and set them on the path of good citizenship," Mizel said. "Compare this with our campaign of $15 per boy to teach good citizenship and then ask yourself which is the better of the two."

The money is used to teach boys to be good citizens, to be honest, loyal, and to serve their communities, he said. It teaches them to be self-reliant, to think for themselves and to take care of themselves under any and all conditions.

"In short, what we are doing is preparing these boys to carry on as American citizens when it comes time for us oldsters to bequeath to them the welfare of this great country which we all love," Mizel said.

Of the goal of $23,000, only $250 goes to the national headquarters, he pointed out, the remainder being used locally. He added that the amount sent to national headquarters "comes back to us in the way of material, services and instruction."

Illustrates Point

Mizel told this story, one of his favorites, to illustrate the demand for scouting: "A short time ago a man moved into an Ulster county community. He placed a small advertisement in the local paper, saying that he would meet with any boys who wanted to be Scouts at his home on a Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Thirty-five boys showed up, and not expecting anything like that he had not prepared any program. So he took them on a hike, during which they made plans for a troop. That troop has been registered, is now functioning and doing an excellent job."

Rip Van Winkle Council's professional staff "is very small considering the fact that this council takes care of two counties," Mizel said. There is a scout executive, one assistant executive, and two office girls. They send out all notices of district and special meetings, keep all the records, furnish the awards for achievement, start new troops, run educational programs for scout leaders and assistants, educate sponsoring organizations, supervise the operation of Camp Tri-mount, and do other related duties, he said.

Mizel also extended an invitation to the public to visit Camp Tri-Mount at East Jewett. Campers are charged only for their food and materials used. The camp maintenance and operation costs in addition comes from the finance drive. An item of $1,000 is included in the budget for upkeep of property and for hiring of camp staff.

When the opponents capture the first large discard pile, your side must concentrate on playing for out. If you manage to meld out quickly, you may even score a small profit on the hand; but if it takes you a long time to meld out, your opponents may run up a very big score.

In this situation, your opponents must be guided by what they think you can do. If they think you can meld out quickly, they must unload most of their own melds. But if they think you are having trouble, they can afford to take their time and thus keep control of the discard pile.

This sometimes gives you the chance to deceive the opponents. You may be very nearly out, but you may find a way to persuade the enemy that you are having trouble. Then you will catch them with most of their cards unmelded.

For example, suppose the opponents pick up a huge discard pile and meld very little of it, hoping for a big score. Your partner immediately makes the initial meld from his hand with A-A-2 and K-K-K. At your next turn you draw from the stock pile and then hold:

2-2 A-A K J 10 5-5-5-5-5

What should you do?

You can, if you choose, make the canasta of aces by adding your two aces and two deuces. Or you can put down your fives with the two deuces. You can make all sorts of melds, discarding either the jack or the ten and leaving yourself with just one card.

But if you do any such thing, the cat will be out of the bag. The opponents will unload hastily, and will probably make a nice profit even if you meld out fairly quickly.

Your best course is to put down only three of the fives. You might also add just one ace to the meld of aces. And then you discard either the jack or the ten.

This play makes it look as though you cannot make a four-card base. You're doing the best you can, of course, by putting down a three-card meld, but you're obviously very far from out. At any rate, that's what the opponents will surely believe.

Now they can afford to keep their cards unmelded, waiting for you to have discard trouble. And of course you will let them have it right between the eyes as soon as you can draw any ace, king, five, or wild card.

Hobson Skipper Blamed for Crash With Carrier Wasp

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—The mid-Atlantic collision of the carrier Wasp and the destroyer-minesweeper Hobson at a cost of 176 lives has been blamed on an "unexplained left turn" ordered by the Hobson's commander.

A naval Court of Inquiry announced late yesterday that a "grave error of judgment" by Lt. Cmdr. W. J. Tierney caused the April 26 collision that sent the Hobson to the bottom and the Wasp limping back to New York, badly damaged.

All Others Cleared

All other officers were cleared of any responsibility for the tragedy, one of the worst peacetime disasters in U. S. naval history.

Cmdr. Tierney of Philadelphia, the only person blamed in the incident, went down with his ship and a navy spokesman said the court's' findings probably would end the case. The court said the reasons for Tierney's actions "will never be known."

The collision occurred before midnight April 26 while the 32,000-ton Wasp and the 1,700-ton Hobson were engaging in night exercises with a task force about 700 miles west of the Azores islands. The night was dark but clear.

The Wasp, a veteran of World War 2, was preparing to make a wide U-turn into the wind to enable airplanes practicing take-off and landing exercises to come aboard.

The carrier's commander, Capt. Burnham C. McCaffree of Canova, S. D., said if the Hobson had turned right during the maneuver all would have been well.

Instead it turned left, and traveling at about 27 knots plowed into the Wasp's bow.

Sawyer Gives Criticism

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says those who predict sharply rising prices are just guessing, and that their unfounded forecasts could help speed up inflation. He said yesterday he plans a survey to get at the real facts. Retiring Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) director Ellis Arnall has said the drouth will have disastrous effects on prices and that the $5.65 a ton steel price increase will cost the average family $100 a year. Without mentioning Arnall by name, Sawyer said inflation often is stimulated by public fear that prices may go up.

Policeman Is Killed

Alexandria, Egypt, Aug. 13 (AP)—One policeman was killed last night when 6,000 employes of a giant textile plant near here stormed and attempted to fire factory buildings in protest against wages and working conditions. The trouble ended shortly when an army detachment from Alexandria, rounded up several hundred demonstrators.

City Still Lacks Industrial Room, Chamber Reports

Industrial development, conventions, the Thruway, Perrine's Bridge, and membership topics made up the agenda at the August meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, at which President Lawrence J. MacAvery presided.

During recent weeks several inquiries were received from industrial firms considering the possibility of locating in Kingston. MacAvery reported that the lack of vacant modern industrial buildings available at a competitive rental, still retard expansion within the city as does the very limited suitable level land. There are many factors involved and in many cases the firms have specific requirements which cannot be met, he said.

A letter was written to B. D. Tallamy, chairman of the Thruway Authority stating that the chamber is interested in the earliest possible completion of the Thruway, but asked that interim traffic problems be given careful consideration in the interest of safety and public convenience. Fear was expressed over the serious traffic problem which would develop if all north-south Route 9-W traffic were carried the entire length of the city to get on the Thruway at Route 28.

Clarence H. Buddenhagen, chairman of the convention committee reported on a recent meeting with representatives of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy to consider the possibilities of inviting the NYS Volunteer Firemen's Association to convene here next year. The firemen felt that more time is needed to consider such a large undertaking and the problems involved would be studied and the possibility of inviting them for some future year would be considered.

Three new membership applications were received and approved. They were Charles F. Muller of the Muller Construction Company, Charles Vogel of the Colonial Construction Company and Vincent P. McDermott of the Albany Avenue Liquor Store.

It was also decided to suggest to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors that careful consideration be given to the preservation of Perrine's Bridge, the oldest wooden bridge in New York state as an historic relic and tourist attraction. The suggestion that this be done was made by Edward M. Huben, a chamber director, and director of Ulster-Greene Vacationland.

This afternoon his aides took him out to the New York Giants-Brooklyn Dodgers ball game. Though Feisal admits to knowing little about baseball, he says he understands the Dodgers are "one of the more important teams." UN Accuses Reds Of Endangering POW

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 13 (AP)—The United Nations today accused the Reds of endangering the lives of UN soldiers in North Korea prison camps by failing to pinpoint camp sites.

The UN asked the Communists to furnish the information "without further delay."

The request was in a letter from Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief UN truce delegate, to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, top Red negotiator.

The letter was handed over at a liaison officer's meeting this afternoon at Panmunjom. The main delegations are in recess until Tuesday.

Bridge, Viaduct

Kingston and along the western part of the route during the summer, but they estimate it will not be as congested during the other months of the year.

When the entire route is completed, it is expected, the flow of thruway traffic to and from the city, will not be as heavy, but there may be a heavier flow to and from the mountains along Route 28. The state through lack of immediate plans for the section of 28 above Boiceville, indicates it has no immediate concern for this problem.

To Improve Margaretville

Considerable mileage of the road will be improved in the Margaretville area, but the repair of sections from that area to Boiceville is not on schedule.

Meanwhile, the office of B. D. Tallamy, public works superintendent, announced today that the department is "starting this week to rescore several hundred miles of highways under its jurisdiction" in conformance with the original study of all state highways completed in 1950.

At that time the department published its "Cooperative Highways Needs Study" in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Closely Scrutinized

Tallamy's report said that every mile of state highway was "closely scrutinized to determine its relative condition in relation to structural, service, traffic, and safety considerations."

Data thus obtained has been used as a basis for highway design and the programming of construction and reconstruction work.

In order that this inventory may be kept to date, he said, a program has been adopted under which every mile of highway will be reappraised and rescored every five to seven years. This, he said, allows for "a sound system of determining priorities" to guide the department in scheduling necessary work."

To Use Same Methods

The 10 district engineers of the department have been instructed to employ the same methods as used in the original survey. Experienced engineers will rescore routes in their districts "selected on the basis of expected changes in rating from sufficient standards to deficient standards due to probably structural deterioration and traffic increases."

It is expected, he said, that rescoring of a portion of the system will be done each year so that deterioration of highways can be detected in ample time to permit the department to prepare plans and to schedule construction work before the existing investment in the highways is endangered.

The results of rescoring studies being made this summer, he said "will be integrated with the original data obtained in 1949 and 1950 to guide the department in its construction program for the next several years."

Hill Is Seized

Manila, Aug. 13 (AP) — Filipino troops today seized a hill overlooking Datu Kamlon's forest redoubt in savage hand-to-hand combat with Moro bandits wielding two-foot long barong knives. Acosta Is Amused, Woman Bemused

Denver, Aug. 13 (AP)—Bert Acosta, pioneer trans-Atlantic flier, says he's amused by reports of a Tulsa, Okla., man with the same name who has been trying to get financial help for an endurance flight attempt.

Acosta said from his hospital bed yesterday that "I haven't been out west in the last five years."

A woman who calls herself Mrs. Acosta told a Tulsa Tribune reporter yesterday she was "all confused" after she had seen a news story reporting that Bert Acosta, ocean-flying partner of Adm. Richard Byrd, was ill in a hospital near Denver.

Makes Her Wonder

"I thought I had been married to Bert Acosta for 10 years," she said. "But this makes me wonder."

The Bert Acosta in Denver has a bed next to one occupied by Tommy Flanagan, a former photographer for the New York Daily Mirror.

Flanagan told newsmen there wasn't any doubt but that the man in the next bed is Bert Acosta. "I've known Bert for years," he said. "We met when I was assigned to cover his flight to Europe."

The Tulsa woman said she hadn't seen her husband for 10 days, she and an oil company who reportedly advanced funds to him for developing a new aircraft engine said they don't know where he is.

Acosta has been a patient at the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society's sanitorium at Spivak, a Denver suburb, for several months.

Two Women Hurt In Traffic Mishaps

Two women were injured in two city traffic mishaps yesterday.

Mrs. George Day, 53, of Stamford, suffered bruises and abrasions of the head, chest and one arm in a two-car accident at Ten Broeck avenue and Grand street, and Mrs. Wava Fowler, 56, of Port Ewen, reported injuries of the left forearm and right knee in a three-car collision at St. James street and Clinton avenue.

Officers Elbert Soper and Gurnsey Burger, Jr., reported the first mishap at 4:35 p. m., and said a coupe, owned by the P. Lorillard Co., Inc., of 119 West 40th street, New York, and driven by William John Duffy, RD, Kingston, was headed west on Grand street.

The other car, a sedan, owned by the Grolier Society of New York, and operated by Fred P. Murphy, RD, Stamford, was going south on Ten Broeck avenue. The injured woman in the latter car was taken to Kingston Hospital for X-rays and treatment.

Officer Ernest Bartroff reported the three-car accident at 5:15 p. m., and said a sedan owned and operated by Vojislav Pacic, 4337 Bingham avenue, Dearborn, Mich., was headed south on Clinton avenue when it was in collision with a sedan owned and operated by Jennie Schweigel, 53, of Port Ewen, going east on St. James street.

Tempelaars Open Portrait Studio

The new, modern Tempelaar Portrait Studio is now open at 444 Washington avenue near Hurley avenue, it was announced today.

The studio, operated by Harry Tempelaar and his daughter, Miss Tibby Tempelaar, will handle all types of portrait work, such as sittings, weddings, medical photography, etc. Portraits in natural colors can also be produced.

Tempelaar, who formerly operated Harry's Delicatessen at 496 Albany avenue, said that it was his desire and aim to do exclusive work which would completely satisfy the customer.

"We hope to meet all our old friends again in our new location," he said.

Tempelaar established the delicatessen in March, 1950, but sold it a month ago because he was unable to meet its arduous physical demands.

Miss Tempelaar is a professional photographer who has been travelling the entire country for a nationally known studio in a supervisory capacity. She has had 14 years of experience in all phases of photographic work.

The studio will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and on Sundays and holidays by special appointment.

Hobson Skipper Blamed for Crash With Carrier Wasp

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—The mid-Atlantic collision of the carrier Wasp and the destroyer-minesweeper Hobson at a cost of 176 lives has been blamed on an "unexplained left turn" ordered by the Hobson's commander.

A naval Court of Inquiry announced late yesterday that a "grave error of judgment" by Lt. Cmdr. W. J. Tierney caused the April 26 collision that sent the Hobson to the bottom and the Wasp limping back to New York, badly damaged.

All Others Cleared

All other officers were cleared of any responsibility for the tragedy, one of the worst peacetime disasters in U. S. naval history.

Cmdr. Tierney of Philadelphia, the only person blamed in the incident, went down with his ship and a navy spokesman said the court's' findings probably would end the case. The court said the reasons for Tierney's actions "will never be known."

The collision occurred before midnight April 26 while the 32,000-ton Wasp and the 1,700-ton Hobson were engaging in night exercises with a task force about 700 miles west of the Azores islands. The night was dark but clear.

The Wasp, a veteran of World War 2, was preparing to make a wide U-turn into the wind to enable airplanes practicing take-off and landing exercises to come aboard.

The carrier's commander, Capt. Burnham C. McCaffree of Canova, S. D., said if the Hobson had turned right during the maneuver all would have been well.

Instead it turned left, and traveling at about 27 knots plowed into the Wasp's bow.

Sawyer Gives Criticism

Washington, Aug. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says those who predict sharply rising prices are just guessing, and that their unfounded forecasts could help speed up inflation. He said yesterday he plans a survey to get at the real facts. Retiring Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) director Ellis Arnall has said the drouth will have disastrous effects on prices and that the $5.65 a ton steel price increase will cost the average family $100 a year. Without mentioning Arnall by name, Sawyer said inflation often is stimulated by public fear that prices may go up.

Policeman Is Killed

Alexandria, Egypt, Aug. 13 (AP)—One policeman was killed last night when 6,000 employes of a giant textile plant near here stormed and attempted to fire factory buildings in protest against wages and working conditions. Eight policemen and two workers were injured. The demonstrators attacked with sticks and stones. The trouble ended shortly when an army detachment from Alexandria, rounded up several hundred demonstrators.

City Still Lacks Industrial Room, Chamber Reports

Industrial development, conventions, the Thruway, Perrine's Bridge, and membership topics made up the agenda at the August meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, at which President Lawrence J. MacAvery presided.

During recent weeks several inquiries were received from industrial firms considering the possibility of locating in Kingston. MacAvery reported that the lack of vacant modern industrial buildings available at a competitive rental, still retard expansion within the city as does the very limited suitable level land. There are many factors involved and in many cases the firms have specific requirements which cannot be met, he said.

A letter was written to B. D. Tallamy, chairman of the Thruway Authority stating that the chamber is interested in the earliest possible completion of the Thruway, but asked that interim traffic problems be given careful consideration in the interest of safety and public convenience. Fear was expressed over the serious traffic problem which would develop if all north-south Route 9-W traffic were carried the entire length of the city to get on the Thruway at Route 28.

Clarence H. Buddenhagen, chairman of the convention committee reported on a recent meeting with representatives of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy to consider the possibilities of inviting the NYS Volunteer Firemen's Association to convene here next year. The firemen felt that more time is needed to consider such a large undertaking and the problems involved would be studied and the possibility of inviting them for some future year would be considered.

Three new membership applications were received and approved. They were Charles F. Muller of the Muller Construction Company, Charles Vogel of the Colonial Construction Company and Vincent P. McDermott of the Albany Avenue Liquor Store.

It was also decided to suggest to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors that careful consideration be given to the preservation of Perrine's Bridge, the oldest wooden bridge in New York state as an historic relic and tourist attraction. The suggestion that this be done was made by Edward M. Huben, a chamber director, and director of Ulster-Greene Vacationland.

This afternoon his aides took him out to the New York Giants-Brooklyn Dodgers ball game. Though Feisal admits to knowing little about baseball, he says he understands the Dodgers are "one of the more important teams." The King is accompanied by his uncle, Emir Abdul Illah, who is regent until Feisal is 18 years old. Feisal will study irrigation projects and other American techniques.

The victim was listed in good condition in Jamestown General Hospital. UN Accuses Reds Of Endangering POW

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 13 (AP)—The United Nations today accused the Reds of endangering the lives of UN soldiers in North Korea prison camps by failing to pinpoint camp sites.

The UN asked the Communists to furnish the information "without further delay."

The request was in a letter from Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief UN truce delegate, to North Korean Gen. Nam Il, top Red negotiator.

The letter was handed over at a liaison officer's meeting this afternoon at Panmunjom. The main delegations are in recess until Tuesday.

Bridge, Viaduct

Kingston and along the western part of the route during the summer, but they estimate it will not be as congested during the other months of the year.

When the entire route is completed, it is expected, the flow of thruway traffic to and from the city, will not be as heavy, but there may be a heavier flow to and from the mountains along Route 28. The state through lack of immediate plans for the section of 28 above Boiceville, indicates it has no immediate concern for this problem.

To Improve Margaretville

Considerable mileage of the road will be improved in the Margaretville area, but the repair of sections from that area to Boiceville is not on schedule.

Meanwhile, the office of B. D. Tallamy, public works superintendent, announced today that the department is "starting this week to rescore several hundred miles of highways under its jurisdiction" in conformance with the original study of all state highways completed in 1950.

At that time the department published its "Cooperative Highways Needs Study" in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Closely Scrutinized

Tallamy's report said that every mile of state highway was "closely scrutinized to determine its relative condition in relation to structural, service, traffic, and safety considerations."

Data thus obtained has been used as a basis for highway design and the programming of construction and reconstruction work.

In order that this inventory may be kept to date, he said, a program has been adopted under which every mile of highway will be reappraised and rescored every five to seven years. This, he said, allows for "a sound system of determining priorities" to guide the department in scheduling necessary work."

To Use Same Methods

The 10 district engineers of the department have been instructed to employ the same methods as used in the original survey. Experienced engineers will rescore routes in their districts "selected on the basis of expected changes in rating from sufficient standards to deficient standards due to probably structural deterioration and traffic increases."

It is expected, he said, that rescoring of a portion of the system will be done each year so that deterioration of highways can be detected in ample time to permit the department to prepare plans and to schedule construction work before the existing investment in the highways is endangered.

The results of rescoring studies being made this summer, he said "will be integrated with the original data obtained in 1949 and 1950 to guide the department in its construction program for the next several years."

Hill Is Seized

Manila, Aug. 13 (AP) — Filipino troops today seized a hill overlooking Datu Kamlon's forest redoubt in savage hand-to-hand combat with Moro bandits wielding two-foot long barong knives. Kamlon and his 300 hardy followers have reneged on a promise to stop thieving raids on Jolo Island in the southern Philippines.

Acosta Is Amused, Woman Bemused

Denver, Aug. 13 (AP)—Bert Acosta, pioneer trans-Atlantic flier, says he's amused by reports of a Tulsa, Okla., man with the same name who has been trying to get financial help for an endurance flight attempt.

Acosta said from his hospital bed yesterday that "I haven't been out west in the last five years."

A woman who calls herself Mrs. Acosta told a Tulsa Tribune reporter yesterday she was "all confused" after she had seen a news story reporting that Bert Acosta, ocean-flying partner of Adm. Richard Byrd, was ill in a nospital near Denver.

Makes Her Wonder

"I thought I had been married to Bert Acosta for 10 years," she said. "But this makes me wonder."

The Bert Acosta in Denver has a bed next to one occupied by Tommy Flanagan, a former photographer for the New York Daily Mirror.

Flanagan told newsmen there wasn't any doubt but that the man in the next bed is Bert Acosta. "I've known Bert for years," he said. "We met when I was assigned to cover his flight to Europe."

The Tulsa woman said she hadn't seen her husband for 10 days, she and an oil company who reportedly advanced funds to him for developing a new aircraft engine said they don't know where he is.

Acosta has been a patient at the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society's sanitorium at Spivak, a Denver suburb, for several months.

Two Women Hurt In Traffic Mishaps

Two women were injured in two city traffic mishaps yesterday.

Mrs. George Day, 53, of Stamford, suffered bruises and abrasions of the head, chest and one arm in a two-car accident at Ten Broeck avenue and Grand street, and Mrs. Wava Fowler, 56, of Port Ewen, reported injuries of the left forearm and right knee in a three-car collision at St. James street and Clinton avenue.

Officers Elbert Soper and Gurnsey Burger, Jr., reported the first mishap at 4:35 p. m., and said a coupe, owned by the P. Lorillard Co., Inc., of 119 West 40th street, New York, and driven by William John Duffy, RD, Kingston, was headed west on Grand street.

The other car, a sedan, owned by the Grolier Society of New York, and operated by Fred P. Murphy, RD, Stamford, was going south on Ten Broeck avenue. The injured woman in the latter car was taken to Kingston Hospital for X-rays and treatment.

Officer Ernest Bartroff reported the three-car accident at 5:15 p. m., and said a sedan owned and operated by Vojislav Pacic, 4337 Bingham avenue, Dearborn, Mich., was headed south on Clinton avenue when it was in collision with a sedan owned and operated by Jennie Schweigel, 53, of Port Ewen, going east on St. James street.

As a result of the impact, the report said, the latter car was in collision with a coupe owned and operated by Charles Gaudette, 28, of 45 Green street, headed north on Clinton avenue.

Record Gets Birth

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 13 (AP)—Fred (Monk) Moeller, making his shots while automobile spotlights played on the fairways, shot his 217th consecutive hole of golf early today to break a 29-year-old marathon record. Nearly out on his feet after 22 hours and 24 minutes of walking over the Maple Crest Country Club, the 35-year-old Moeller finished his tour with a 951 total. Rensselaer, Aug. 13 (AP)—George W. Daley, "The Monitor," whose 59 years as a New York newspaperman spanned sports and general news assignments, died yesterday while visiting his sister in suburban Clinton Heights. He was 76.

Cragsmoor Presents

HELEN WAREN

Continuing his policy of doing only the most recent of the Broadway successes, Lee K. Holland, producer-manager for the mountain-top Cragsmoor Playhouse, last night presented Helen Waren, recent star of Broadway, in Edward Mabley's comedy success, Glad Tidings. The play continues evenings through Sunday, Aug. 17.

Glad Tidings is the story of a journalist who returns to America after an absence of 20 years to find himself the father of a charming 19-year-old daughter. This is but one of the many complications which arise from then on.

Helen Waren was directed by Jay Strong. Included in the cast are Hill Bermont, Barbara Glenn, Nancy Devlin, Helene Santley, John Lamberson, Jimmie Goodwin, Diane Kemble and Wade Taylor. Sets were designed and executed by Jean LeSeyeux and the lighting effects are by Bernie Weiner.

By EMILY POST

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

A LITTLE LATE FOR DISPLAY

A mother writes: "My son is being married in a city quite some distance from here. The wedding is to be rather large and many of our friends have sent lovely gifts, even though they cannot go to the wedding. Following the marriage, my son is bringing his bride here to live. They will stay with me while their house is put in order. During their stay I would like to give a tea to introduce my new daughter to our friends. Would it be proper at this time to display the wedding gifts as is customarily done at a house reception? It will be the only chance that our friends will have of seeing the many lovely things they received."

It would be very strange to put them on display. It would be best for them to wait until they have moved into their new house and show intimate friends through the house saying, "Mary gave us this" and "Alice gave us that."

Father Is Included

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish to announce my daughter's engagement and as I am divorced from my husband, am wondering if it is necessary to include his name when sending the announcement to the newspaper?

Answer: Certainly you should—after all, she is still his daughter.

Junior Officer Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a junior officer in the service and I understand that it is customary for us to call on senior officers and their wives and for them to return these calls shortly thereafter. This brings up two questions about which I would like your advice. (1) Before calling on these officers and their wives, is it proper to telephone first and ask if it is convenient to see us, or do we just go? (2) When these calls are returned, is it necessary to serve refreshments of any kind?

Answer: (1) You just go. (2) You need not serve anything.

Sugar and Cream?

Dear Mrs. Post: When serving after-dinner coffee in small cups, should sugar and cream be proffered with it?

Answer: Sugar is the only exaction, but many people serve cream, too. (I, for one, always do.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. The answers to questions on pictures of the bride, the wedding cake and other wedding procedures are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-2. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Emergency Operation

Fort Coulonge, Que., Aug. 13 (AP)—A vacationing dentist from Erie, Pa., performed an emergency operation yesterday with a fishhook for a needle and fishing line for suture. He closed a deep gash in the arm of a fishing guide. Dr. Eugene Engeskirger repaired severed tendons and stitched up an eight-inch-long, bonedeep cut in the left arm of Ernie Ladouceur, 45-year-old operator of a fishing camp at Big Moose Lake, 60 miles north of this Ottawa river town. The guide was hurt when a fan blade from a small gasoline engine broke off and hit him. Whiskey and headache pills were used as emergency anesthetics for the operation.

Nudists Count on 'Patch'

Cape Cod Postcard Features Sandra Flemings

RHODA OSTERHOUDT

Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhoudt of 39 Esopus avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhoda, to Thaddeus Schatzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schatzel, of 61 Wilson avenue. The wedding will take place in the near future.

The bride-elect is associated with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Schatzel is employed by the General Electric Company in Schenectady.

Grange News

Officers Association

The Ulster County Grange Officers Association will meet tonight at 8 p. m. in the Lake Katrine Grange hall in Lake Katrine. Grange members as well as officers are urged to attend.

Because of this meeting, the motion picture film usually shown in the Grange hall on Wednesday evenings, will be presented this week only at the Lake Katrine School on the Neighborhood Road. The feature will be The Five Little Peppers at Home. All juniors, parents and friends are invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

According to scientists, there is no such thing as a special brain food.

Red Lights, More Eggs

Storrs, Conn., Aug. 13 (AP)—Put a red light over your hen nests, and watch the eggs roll in. That's the advice of C. S. Platt, Rutgers University egg expert. Platt, in a paper for the 41st annual meeting of the National Poultry Association at the University of Connecticut, told how New Jersey poultry raisers did it during the war. Air raid regulations blacked out the brilliantly lighted poultry houses along the Jersey coast, he said, so farmers turned on the dim red lights to let them see. The red light had a tendency to keep the hens longer on the nests. Egg production rose, and since then, experiments have confirmed the red light's effect on hens.

Two or Three at a Time

If you use a divider in your pressure saucepan you can cook two or three vegetables at one time and there will be no intermingling of flavors.

Orpheum Theatre Will Show Smash Romantic Musical

Following a series of smash musical hits on Broadway, Ray Middleton, one of the outstanding singing stars of stage and screen, returns to films in one of the most brilliant offerings of the season, Republic's romantic musical, "I Dream of Jeanie (With the Light Brown Hair)." Filmed in magnificent Trucolor, the picture opens at the Orpheum Theatre on Friday, August 15.

Middleton, who shares co-starring honors with Bill Shirley, Muriel Lawrence and Eileen Christy in the handsome production, has appeared in many top Broadway musical shows, most notable of which was probably his co-starring role with Mary Martin in "South Pacific."

Other top Broadway productions in which Middleton, who portrays the bombastic minstrel Christy in the Republic film, has appeared, include "Roberta," "George White's Scandals," "Knickerbocker Holiday," "Winged Victory," "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Love Life."

Radio and television activities have also occupied the singing star in between stage and film work. Middleton has appeared in a series of programs for the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and has also made numerous guest appearances. His television activities include emceeing the Ed Sullivan Show and guest spots on "This Is Show Business," "ANTA Playhouse," "Celebrity Time," the "Jack Carter Show" and with Ken Murray.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

A LITTLE LATE FOR DISPLAY

A mother writes: "My son is being married in a city quite some distance from here. The wedding is to be rather large and many of our friends have sent lovely gifts, even though they cannot go to the wedding. Following the marriage, my son is bringing his bride here to live. They will stay with me while their house is put in order. During their stay I would like to give a tea to introduce my new daughter to our friends. Would it be proper at this time to display the wedding gifts as is customarily done at a house reception? It will be the only chance that our friends will have of seeing the many lovely things they received."

It would be very strange to put them on display. It would be best for them to wait until they have moved into their new house and show intimate friends through the house saying, "Mary gave us this" and "Alice gave us that."

Father Is Included

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish to announce my daughter's engagement and as I am divorced from my husband, am wondering if it is necessary to include his name when sending the announcement to the newspaper?

Answer: Certainly you should—after all, she is still his daughter.

Junior Officer Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a junior officer in the service and I understand that it is customary for us to call on senior officers and their wives and for them to return these calls shortly thereafter. This brings up two questions about which I would like your advice. (1) Before calling on these officers and their wives, is it proper to telephone first and ask if it is convenient to see us, or do we just go? (2) When these calls are returned, is it necessary to serve refreshments of any kind?

Answer: (1) You just go. (2) You need not serve anything.

Sugar and Cream?

Dear Mrs. Post: When serving after-dinner coffee in small cups, should sugar and cream be proffered with it?

Answer: Sugar is the only exaction, but many people serve cream, too. (I, for one, always do.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. The answers to questions on pictures of the bride, the wedding cake and other wedding procedures are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-2. Emergency Operation

Fort Coulonge, Que., Aug. 13 (AP)—A vacationing dentist from Erie, Pa., performed an emergency operation yesterday with a fishhook for a needle and fishing line for suture. He closed a deep gash in the arm of a fishing guide. Dr. Eugene Engeskirger repaired severed tendons and stitched up an eight-inch-long, bonedeep cut in the left arm of Ernie Ladouceur, 45-year-old operator of a fishing camp at Big Moose Lake, 60 miles north of this Ottawa river town. The guide was hurt when a fan blade from a small gasoline engine broke off and hit him. Whiskey and headache pills were used as emergency anesthetics for the operation.

Nudists Count on 'Patch'

Cape Cod Postcard Features Sandra Flemings

Future Bride

RHODA OSTERHOUDT

Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhoudt of 39 Esopus avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Rhoda, to Thaddeus Schatzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schatzel, of 61 Wilson avenue. The wedding will take place in the near future.

The bride-elect is associated with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Schatzel is employed by the General Electric Company in Schenectady.

Grange News

Officers Association

The Ulster County Grange Officers Association will meet tonight at 8 p. m. in the Lake Katrine Grange hall in Lake Katrine. Grange members as well as officers are urged to attend.

Because of this meeting, the motion picture film usually shown in the Grange hall on Wednesday evenings, will be presented this week only at the Lake Katrine School on the Neighborhood Road. The feature will be The Five Little Peppers at Home. All juniors, parents and friends are invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

According to scientists, there is no such thing as a special brain food.

Red Lights, More Eggs

Storrs, Conn., Aug. 13 (AP)—Put a red light over your hen nests, and watch the eggs roll in. That's the advice of C. S. Platt, Rutgers University egg expert. Platt, in a paper for the 41st annual meeting of the National Poultry Association at the University of Connecticut, told how New Jersey poultry raisers did it during the war. Air raid regulations blacked out the brilliantly lighted poultry houses along the Jersey coast, he said, so farmers turned on the dim red lights to let them see. The red light had a tendency to keep the hens longer on the nests. Egg production rose, and since then, experiments have confirmed the red light's effect on hens.

Two or Three at a Time

If you use a divider in your pressure saucepan you can cook two or three vegetables at one time and there will be no intermingling of flavors.

Orpheum Theatre Will Show Smash Romantic Musical

Following a series of smash musical hits on Broadway, Ray Middleton, one of the outstanding singing stars of stage and screen, returns to films in one of the most brilliant offerings of the season, Republic's romantic musical, "I Dream of Jeanie (With the Light Brown Hair)." Filmed in magnificent Trucolor, the picture opens at the Orpheum Theatre on Friday, August 15.

Middleton, who shares co-starring honors with Bill Shirley, Muriel Lawrence and Eileen Christy in the handsome production, has appeared in many top Broadway musical shows, most notable of which was probably his co-starring role with Mary Martin in "South Pacific."

Other top Broadway productions in which Middleton, who portrays the bombastic minstrel Christy in the Republic film, has appeared, include "Roberta," "George White's Scandals," "Knickerbocker Holiday," "Winged Victory," "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Love Life."

Radio and television activities have also occupied the singing star in between stage and film work. Middleton has appeared in a series of programs for the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and has also made numerous guest appearances. His television activities include emceeing the Ed Sullivan Show and guest spots on "This Is Show Business," "ANTA Playhouse," "Celebrity Time," the "Jack Carter Show" and with Ken Murray.

Stores Preparing for Great Mass of Shoppers on Kingston Days, Friday and Saturday

Merchants Ready To Share Benefits Of Kingston Days

Every year about this time an advertising man invades the editorial office and collars one of the reporters.

"How about a story on Kingston Days? Most of the merchants are getting together to promote a big sale this Friday and Saturday, August 15 and 16."

"Wait a minute," says the reporter. "You can't tell me it's been a whole year since I last wrote something about Kingston Days."

The ad man admitted that it was not. "You see, they have two Kingston Days sales a year—one in February and one in August."

"Okay. So, what's new? Can you think of any new angles for this story you want?"

"Well," said the ad man, "The merchants are going all-out to make this sale bigger and better than ever."

The reporter smiled, "Merchants are always going all-out to make something bigger and better than ever, aren't they?"

So would you, replied the ad man, if your living depended directly on it.

Everybody Profits

The reporter mumbled that, indirectly, the welfare of the total community depends upon the state of its business. It is not just the merchants who profit from healthy business.

"That's just the point," said the ad man warming up to his topic. "That's why we think you should publicize these sales in the news columns."

"Hold on. Of course you know that a newspaper's responsibility to its advertisers is to provide a paper full of real honest-to-goodness news so that more and more people will read the paper. Ads are sold on circulation, not on publicity."

"Just so," said the ad man. "And don't you think that a sale is news, just as much as some other items? After all, your readers—particularly the women—want to know when the sales are going on when they can get quality merchandise at a savings."

The reporter admitted he probably had a point there. "But how do we really know that there will be real values? How do you know that this isn't just a lot of shopworn stuff that's been lying around on the shelves for a long time?"

So the ad man invited the reporter to take a walk over town to see some of the merchants. The first person they bumped into was Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the Kingston Merchants Association, uptown branch.

"Tell this skeptic why you think there will be some good buys around this Friday and Saturday," the ad man commanded.

Excellent Summer Business

"It's like this," said Wonderly, we've had excellent summer business. Our shelves have been virtually cleaned out. So, we've had to order all new merchandise for this sale. It's all good stuff, no junk."

"Well," said the reporter, "you win. I'll write a story. But you've got to give me some facts and figures. I can't write something out of thin air."

Wonderly replied, "There are about 100 stores cooperating in this promotion. Each of the cooperating stores will display a large poster in its window."

The ad man interrupted, "And don't forget the promotion angle. There are lots of advertisements in The Freeman. Also, posters have been distributed throughout a 35-mile radius of Kingston."

The reporter asked, "Do you have some kind of chairman or committee planning all this?"

"Yes," said Wonderly, "Byron Chatham is our chairman."

The reporter thanked the two men for their help in obtaining a story, and turned to go.

"Just a minute," Wonderly called after him. "Don't forget to tell them we've got better parking facilities now. Suggest that they use the newly opened free parking lot in the municipal stadium."

So it's Kingston Days this Friday and Saturday. Stores open usual hours; that is, until 9 p. m. Friday, and usual closing time on Saturday.

'Giant' Equipment Found

Burnaby, Canada (AP)—Seeming evidence that giants once inhabited British Columbia has been found by W. E. and E. M. Norman, a father and son geology team here. In a 30-year search of their two-acre plot they found weapons only supermen could use—200 to 300-pound granite axes, huge belt axes, knife-handles and spears.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Your Lead May Help Partner Win Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One advantage of invariably leading the fourth best card from a broken suit is that your partner has a chance to use his judgment. He may be able to read the entire hand and make the killing play.

In today's hand, West led the five of diamonds—the fourth best card of his very much broken diamond suit. East won with the ace of diamonds and South dropped the king.

Without considering the full implications of South's play, East decided that there was no further nourishment in diamonds. He therefore shifted to the eight of spades.

South grunted with satisfaction and hastily put up the ace of spades to win the second trick. He then cashed the queen of diamonds, entered dummy with the queen of hearts, and discarded his losing club on the jack of diamonds.

At this point, of course, South was sure to win ten tricks—with seven trumps, two diamonds, and the ace of spades. He tried for an extra trick by leading a spade from dummy, but was not greatly disappointed to find that West had both the king and the jack.

Opening lead—♦ 5

One reason for South's satisfaction was that he had been handed the contract by East's careless play. East could have made the killing return if he had simply remembered that West's opening lead was almost undoubtedly the fourth best diamond.

What does East know about the diamonds after he has won the first trick? East can see the four of diamonds in his own hand, and the three of diamonds in dummy. Hence West may have the deuce of diamonds, but cannot have any other diamonds lower than the five. In other words, West cannot have more than a five-card diamond suit.

This reveals an important fact about the South hand. South is bound to have at least two diamonds. Why did South play the king of diamonds at the first trick if he also held at least one other diamond? The obvious conclusion is that South must also hold the queen of diamonds.

East should therefore see the danger that South will eventually get a discard on dummy's jack of diamonds. The surest way to prevent this is to use up dummy's queen of hearts before South has the chance to unblock the diamonds.

East should therefore return a trump at the second trick, and now South will not make the contract.

"Hold on. Of course you know that a newspaper's responsibility to its advertisers is to provide a paper full of real honest-to-goodness news so that more and more people will read the paper. Ads are sold on circulation, not on publicity."

"Just so," said the ad man. "And don't you think that a sale is news, just as much as some other items? After all, your readers—particularly the women—want to know when the sales are going on when they can get quality merchandise at a savings."

The reporter admitted he probably had a point there. "But how do we really know that there will be real values? How do you know that this isn't just a lot of shopworn stuff that's been lying around on the shelves for a long time?"

So the ad man invited the reporter to take a walk over town to see some of the merchants. The first person they bumped into was Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the Kingston Merchants Association, uptown branch.

"Tell this skeptic why you think there will be some good buys around this Friday and Saturday," the ad man commanded.

Excellent Summer Business

"It's like this," said Wonderly, we've had excellent summer business. Our shelves have been virtually cleaned out. So, we've had to order all new merchandise for this sale. It's all good stuff, no junk."

"Well," said the reporter, "you win. I'll write a story. But you've got to give me some facts and figures. I can't write something out of thin air."

Wonderly replied, "There are about 100 stores cooperating in this promotion. Each of the cooperating stores will display a large poster in its window."

The ad man interrupted, "And don't forget the promotion angle. There are lots of advertisements in The Freeman. Also, posters have been distributed throughout a 35-mile radius of Kingston."

The reporter asked, "Do you have some kind of chairman or committee planning all this?"

"Yes," said Wonderly, "Byron Chatham is our chairman."

The reporter thanked the two men for their help in obtaining a story, and turned to go.

"Just a minute," Wonderly called after him. "Don't forget to tell them we've got better parking facilities now. Suggest that they use the newly opened free parking lot in the municipal stadium."

So it's Kingston Days this Friday and Saturday. Stores open usual hours; that is, until 9 p. m. Friday, and usual closing time on Saturday.

'Giant' Equipment Found

Burnaby, Canada (AP)—Seeming evidence that giants once inhabited British Columbia has been found by W. E. and E. M. Norman, a father and son geology team here. In a 30-year search of their two-acre plot they found weapons only supermen could use—200 to 300-pound granite axes, huge belt axes, knife-handles and spears.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Your Lead May Help Partner Win Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One advantage of invariably leading the fourth best card from a broken suit is that your partner has a chance to use his judgment. He may be able to read the entire hand and make the killing play.

In today's hand, West led the five of diamonds—the fourth best card of his very much broken diamond suit. East won with the ace of diamonds and South dropped the king.

Without considering the full implications of South's play, East decided that there was no further nourishment in diamonds. He therefore shifted to the eight of spades.

South grunted with satisfaction and hastily put up the ace of spades to win the second trick. He then cashed the queen of diamonds, entered dummy with the queen of hearts, and discarded his losing club on the jack of diamonds.

At this point, of course, South was sure to win ten tricks—with seven trumps, two diamonds, and the ace of spades. He tried for an extra trick by leading a spade from dummy, but was not greatly disappointed to find that West had both the king and the jack.

Opening lead—♦ 5

One reason for South's satisfaction was that he had been handed the contract by East's careless play. East could have made the killing return if he had simply remembered that West's opening lead was almost undoubtedly the fourth best diamond.

What does East know about the diamonds after he has won the first trick? East can see the four of diamonds in his own hand, and the three of diamonds in dummy. Hence West may have the deuce of diamonds, but cannot have any other diamonds lower than the five. In other words, West cannot have more than a five-card diamond suit.

This reveals an important fact about the South hand. South is bound to have at least two diamonds. Why did South play the king of diamonds at the first trick if he also held at least one other diamond? The obvious conclusion is that South must also hold the queen of diamonds.

East should therefore see the danger that South will eventually get a discard on dummy's jack of diamonds. The surest way to prevent this is to use up dummy's queen of hearts before South has the chance to unblock the diamonds.

East should therefore return a trump at the second trick, and now South will not make the contract.

Six Die in Blast

Frosinone, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP)—Police reported today that an explosion in a clandestine firecracker factory near here killed six persons and crumbled a two-story building. The dead included three men, two teen-age boys and a three-year-old girl. The explosion, while the firecrackers were being manufactured secretly, set off a large store of fireworks.

Special Pool Made For Paraplegics

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Tiny Judy Heuman, four-year-old paraplegic, cut the silk ribbon officially opening "Rehabilitation Beach" for disabled children of the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University-Bellevue Medical Center, yesterday.

The main feature of the new beach is a 16 by eight foot swimming pool made of royal blue and white plastic built on a deep base of soft sand.

Attending the ceremony were two brothers, Edwin M. Lamothe, 46, of 23-44 35th street, Astoria, Queens, and Raymond F. X. Lamothe, 42, of 1017 70th street, Brooklyn, who made construction of the pool possible by donating their time and labor when not busy with the operation of their business, the Airways Ambulance Service, Inc.

Edwin Lamothe, himself a former paraplegic as the result of an automobile accident when he was 13, said he had a personal interest in proper construction of the pool to meet the needs of handicapped bathers. He now is fully recovered.

The walls of the pool are wheelchair height. Two ramps leading to the pool's deck are graded for easy access by wheelchair or crutches and special drainage provides for a constant change of water.

Funds for the purchase of the material were made available through the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children, Children's Rehabilitation Service, and an anonymous donor who gave $400.

Only Old Boiler

slightest idea. I am sorry to have to admit that I had no idea of what Hoffman and his band of clandestine adventurers were pulling on us at our expense and in the name of the American people when we thought their job was to help bind the wounds and repair the machinery of broken nations.

Just glance at the list of payroll tourists from the American Newspaper Guild alone, remembering that this guild is a CIO racket with a notorious record of Red communism beginning with the presidency of Heywood Broun who boasted shortly before he died that he had tried to get his son started right in the newspaper business by planting him on the Communist Daily Worker:

Did you ever hear of any of these noted American journalists? Do you think they ever "had it so good" in the newspaper business here as they have it on the public payroll in those soft bureaucratic jobs in Europe?

Money in the Bubbles

Stafford, England, Aug. 13 (AP)—A Staffordshire smelter worker stared yesterday at the cauldron of molten lead he was stirring—wads of money were rising up through the bubbles. The astonished worker snatched 52 one-pound notes ($145.60) from the seething cauldron. The money apparently had been hidden in a bag of lead scrap which later was sent to the smelter for re-use.

Checking State Roads

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—Several hundred miles of state highway are being checked this week by the State Public Works Department to help draft construction and repair plans for the coming year. The department said today the program was part of a perpetual inventory of all state highways. It was started in 1950. The program calls for a reappraisal of every mile of state highway every five to seven years.

meeting was the first in which a retiring president met the nominee of his own party to discuss campaign plans since the late Calvin Coolidge did not choose to run again in 1928.

Avoids Direct Links

Before and since his nomination, Stevenson has tried to make it clear he is avoiding any direct links with the Truman administration and is prepared to effect a wholesale turnover in Washington if he is elected.

It was apparent major campaign plans will be made at a Springfield conference this weekend without any White House representative sitting in.

To this conference, Stevenson has summoned Sparkman; Wilson Wyatt, his personal campaign manager; Stephen Mitchell, new Democratic national chairman, and other Democratic leaders.

Nixon Says Adlai

with their own eyes on television how the pattern developed. They saw how Estes Kefauver, who was the choice of the people in the primaries, was cast aside on the third ballot when the political bosses * * * began to pull the strings."

Hand-Picked Candidate

Nixon said "Stevenson is truly a hand-picked candidate and the hand that picked him was that of Harry Truman.

"Eisenhower on the other hand owes his nomination solely to the fact that he was the choice of millions of Americans in free primary elections."

"They want to clean up the corruption in Washington which has cast an unfair reflection on millions of honest government employes.

"They want a man in the White House who does not look upon the Communists in America as 'red herrings' or 'phantoms in our midst.'

"They want relief from the policies which have put the double squeeze of high taxes and high prices on every family budget."

State Spends $861,437 In Its Crime Hunt

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—New York state has shelled out $861,437.06 in its hunt for crime and political corruption, and there are still trails to explore.

The investigations, sparked by the State Crime Commission, were ordered by Gov. Dewey in the wake of dramatic hearings by the U. S. Senate's Crime Investigating Committee.

The state commission was given a dual assignment: To spotlight any illicit political-underworld links and to weigh the feasibility of broadening state control over local law enforcement and plugging loopholes in present laws.

After performing the preliminary spadework, the commission, headed by Joseph M. Proskauer of New York city, passed on its findings to special grand juries in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties.

In the achievement column, investigators list potshots at political chieftains in several counties and the hobbling of smaller game, especially in gambling and the rackets.

Several persons, some of them political bigwigs, have been indicted on felony charges of corruption. The special juries also have returned many misdemeanor indictments.

Pope Receive Three

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP)—Pope Pius XII received three members of the U. S. Senate Judiciary Committee in special audience today. The three Americans—Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) Robert C. Hendrickson (R-N.J.) and Willis Smith (D-N.C.)—spent about 20 minutes with the pontiff. The senators arrived in Rome last night to confer with Italian officials on emigration and problems connected with political refugees.

Truman Talks With Nominees

Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama leans over for a closer look as President Truman and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson talk at the White House, August 12. Presidential nominee Stevenson had a big afternoon ahead of him, conferring with the President and his cabinet on issues and strategy of the campaign.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD S. THIBAUT, Jr.

Murder Story Is Full of Suspense

Woodstock, Aug. 13—Invitation to a Murder, which opened Tuesday night at the Woodstock Playhouse, is a good grandiose gripper in the great gloomy mansion tradition. In spine-chilling luxury the Channing family, descendants of the ruthless Spanish Inquisitors, who buried their gold and built vast fortunes four centuries ago, carry on certain not too pleasant family customs.

Against the extravagant Spanish Rococo background of the Great Hall of the Channing estate on the coast of Southern California, Lorinda Channing moves in regal black, dominate and commanding. But her red pirate blood boils a little too near the surface, and she conceives a fiendish plan to trap either her niece, Estelle Channing, or her two nephews, Horatio and Walter Channing, one of whom she is convinced is attempting to muder her.

Into the web are drawn the witless Doctor Linton and Peter Thorne, her young attorney as well as a too-curious gardner, Pedro. Things begin to happen from the moment Lorinda's maid is found mysterously dead in her apartment. Dark figures lurk in the fog outside, people creep about in the night, and the suspense heightens as Lorinda's plan gets under way.

Edith Gresham as the stately Lorinda, imbues her with despotic power and authority, with the barbaric undercurrents seeping through the restrained surface at the proper moments. Franklyn Fox brings subdued pathos to his role as the "craven" Doctor Linton, while Richard Shankland is the arch, quiet-moving family retainer, Martin.

Sardonic and bitter, Gordon Mills plays Horatio Channing with all the scorn brewed in the soul of a disappointed Hollywood producer. In contrast, his brother Walter, as played by John Sydow, releases tensions with easy, cutting loquacity. Next to Lorinda, Estelle Channing played by Pat Sales, is in the most peril, being the first in line for the family fortune. Miss Sales conveyed with skill the idea that the pirate blood had been well-diluted in her veins. Robert Baines, who returned to the Playhouse this week, is fine and strong as Peter Thorne the young lawyer, handling Lorinda's estate, and Jane Lloyd-Jones is a good foil as his brittle, amusing sister, Jeanette.

Others who add to the dire events at the Great Hall are Jules Villon as the skulking Pedro, W. Jerry Jerominek as Detective Sergeant Selbridge, Boris Sarda as the state trooper and Alfred Agostino as the police photographer.

Robert H. Harris, has in Invitation to a Murder, produced an evening of suspense and surprises.

Artists Will Show At Senate Museum

Woodstock, Aug. 13—The offer by the executive board of the Kingston Senate House Museum to the Woodstock Artists Association to show groups of paintings in their newly-decorated lower gallery has been enthusiastically accepted by the Woodstock artists.

Norbert Heermann, liaison officer between both organizations, reports that the first exhibition will open Friday. Nationally known artists to be represented include Henry Mattson, Arnold Blanch, Doris Lee, Siegmund Menkes, Edward Millman, Andre Ruellan, John Taylor and Konrad Cramer.

The exhibition will be on view for three weeks to be followed by other interesting groups of paintings, drawings, lithographs, etchings and an occasional one-man show.

Heermann says that the reports on important, recent Kingston exhibitions of early American art revealed a heretofore unrealized extent of art interest and initiative in the town and that the inauguration of these modern exhibitions in the Senate House Museum should stimulate a much desired, closer contact between the art minded public of this region and the artists of Woodstock.

Mrs. E. C. Chadbourne, president of the Kingston Senate House Association; Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, vice president, and Norbert Heermann will be present Friday afternoon at the opening of the exhibition.

Woodstock Foundation Elects New Trustees

Woodstock, Aug. 13—At the meeting of the Woodstock Foundation last Friday afternoon at the Dutch Reformed Church, the following new trustees were elected: Alphone Bare, Mrs. Charles Boswell, Edward Harrison, Kaj Klitgaard. Trustees re-elected were David Huffine, Mrs. Emmet Edwards and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd.

The board of trustees will meet at the Dutch Reformed Church Friday, August 15, at 4:30 p. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, and to discuss the benefit play to be presented this fall. Committees will be appointed.

Bullard Show

Woodstock, Aug. 13—Landscape paintings of an earlier Woodstock by Marion Bullard will be shown at Parnassus Square, Saturday, Aug. 23, through September 6. Mrs. Bullard, who died in 1950, was active as a painter, with the group centering around Rock City until about 1930, when she turned to the writing and illustrating of children's books.

Art Conference To Cover Theory, Creative Lines

Woodstock, Aug. 13—In a far-reaching effort to bridge the gulf between aesthetic theory and actual creative processes, the Fourth Annual Woodstock Art Conference to be held August 22 and 23 has called together prominent philosophers, painters, sculptors, writers, designers and architects to discuss the problems of "The Artist and the Aesthetician."

Dr. George Boas, distinguished philosopher and aesthetician, will make the keynote address Friday evening, August 22. The following day will be devoted to statements and panel discussion by participants, followed by comments from the audience of artists and interested laymen. All sessions will be at the Art Students League.

Among those who have accepted invitations to participate are Robert Motherwell, Ben Shahn, Harry Holzman, Lester D. Longman, Gyorgy Kepes, David Smith, Barnett Newman, George L. K. Morris, Robert J. Wolff, John Alford, James W. Fitzgibbon.

The conference committee includes Doris Lee, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Edward Millman, Rollin Crampton and Ralph Wickiser. In charge of arrangements are William Eisner and Rodney Lethbridge. On the housing committee are Mrs. Barbara Fite, Mrs. Phoebe Towbin, Mrs. Amy Small, Mrs. Cecile Forman and Mrs. Rosalie Berkowitz.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Aug. 13—Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Gregory are entertaining Professor and Mrs. D. M. S. Watson of London, England. Professor Watson is a famous geologist and will visit some of the Catskill localities where fossils have been found.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfeo Pignotti are visiting in this village for a few days. Mr. Pignotti, a violinist who has been heard in past seasons at the Maverick Concert Hall, has received a Fulbright award, and they plan to sail for Italy this fall.

Robert Baines, Woodstock Playhouse favorite, has returned for the current offering, Invitation To a Murder. With Mr. Baines is his wife, Lula Belle Clarke, who recently returned east after a theatrical engagement in Chicago.

Red Infiltration

after a futile effort in the 1930's to undermine the Scout movement, switched to the infiltration plan, under which they hoped to mix secret Red agents among the Scouts.

Matusow said that as a Communist he saw a high powered plan evolved to infiltrate high schools, community and even church clubs, and labor unions. He termed scout infiltration a part of this plan.

Says He Was Recruited

Another witness, Herbert Romerstein of Brooklyn, N. Y., told of being recruited into the Communist-front as a high school student at the age of 15½. Romerstein said he finally divorced himself from communism.

The subcommittee reported also testimony of witnesses who refused to say whether they were Communists, or had any role in the Communist youth movement.

One of them, Margaret Hope Wooley, a New York actress also known as Hope Foye, was asked:

"In case of war between the United States and the Soviet Union, where would your sympathies lie?"

"I refuse to answer the question on the basis that it might incriminate me," she answered.

Also refusing to say whether they were Communists were Dorothy Gottlieb, New York city; Doris Koppelman of the Bronx, Mrs. Joy Silver, of New York and Simon Kramer, Brooklyn.

Carolinian Is Fined

Leland Eddins of Kannapolis, N. C., was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson yesterday and fined $100 for not having a highway use permit. He was arrested early Tuesday afternoon by Ellenville state police. Law requires trucks with a gross weight of 18,000 pounds or more to carry a highway use permit.

Britons Relate Strange Tale of Being Captives

Aberdeen, Scotland, Aug. 13 (AP)—Eleven Britons arrived home by yacht today to tell of a strange adventure with Russians who nabbed them near a group of top-secret islands in the Gulf of Finland.

The islands are off Porkkala, the Russian-held bastion at the head of the gulf which Finland ceded after her recent wars with Russia.

Manufacturer Peter Saunders, one of the four men and seven women aboard the Helsinki-bound yacht, said the craft was well outside the usual three-mile limit when "suddenly we heard shots and rushed on deck to find a Russian gunboat firing on us.

"The captain stopped the yacht and three Russian sailors jumped aboard. At first we thought they were pirates—one hadn't had a shave or haircut for three months.

"We were taken to a harbor. Obviously there are important installations on the islands as within an hour a colonel and other senior officers arrived.

"For four hours they questioned us—entirely through signs and drawings. They didn't speak a word of English. We didn't speak a word of Russian."

Anthracite Coal

A hunter named Philip Ginter accidentally discovered anthracite coal in Cabron County, Pa., in 1791. It was regarded as a species of black stone.

Glasco Procession

The annual procession at Glasco in honor of Our Lady Assumed Into Heaven will take place Sunday, Aug. 17, 2 p. m., under the chairmanship of Charles Pasqua, accompanied by the Glasco Community Band. The various societies from St. Joseph's parish will participate and volunteers will carry the statue. The procession will return to the church for Benediction. In the event of rain the procession will be held Sunday, Aug. 24, at 2 p. m. Mass for those partaking in or contributing to the procession will be offered the Sunday after the procession.

Key to Your Health

Chiropractors agree that your body is not only a chemical compound but much more. It is an intelligent grouping of chemical elements directed and controlled by a body manager—your brain.

W.J.Sussin

This intelligence is kept informed of body needs through the nervous system and is able to care for your body without outside assistance. Falls or accidents can interrupt this means of communication by displacing a vertebra enough to pinch nerve fibers traveling to every gland, organ and tissue cell of your body. This disturbs normal function leading to lowered body resistance and eventual inability to fight off ever-present harmful bacteria. Sickness follows.

Chiropractors insist that nerve channels must be cleared from interference for the return of normal health.

Indecisive Session

meeting was the first in which a retiring president met the nominee of his own party to discuss campaign plans since the late Calvin Coolidge did not choose to run again in 1928.

Avoids Direct Links

Before and since his nomination, Stevenson has tried to make it clear he is avoiding any direct links with the Truman administration and is prepared to effect a wholesale turnover in Washington if he is elected.

He was said to be in general agreement with the President on the issues to be emphasized during the campaign and this apparently prompted Stevenson's announcement on the White House steps yesterday that he had "a very satisfactory and reassuring and gratifying talk with the President about the campaign."

Significantly, perhaps, Truman gave the party nominee first crack at the microphones.

After the Illinois governor had expressed deep gratification for the President's "proffer of cooperation in every respect and in every degree," Truman took his turn.

It was apparent major campaign plans will be made at a Springfield conference this weekend without any White House representative sitting in.

To this conference, Stevenson has summoned Sparkman; Wilson Wyatt, his personal campaign manager; Stephen Mitchell, new Democratic national chairman, and other Democratic leaders.

Nixon Says Adlai

with their own eyes on television how the pattern developed. They saw how Estes Kefauver, who was the choice of the people in the primaries, was cast aside on the third ballot when the political bosses * * * began to pull the strings."

Hand-Picked Candidate

Nixon said "Stevenson is truly a hand-picked candidate and the hand that picked him was that of Harry Truman.

"Eisenhower on the other hand owes his nomination solely to the fact that he was the choice of millions of Americans in free primary elections."

Nixon contended that Democrats and Republicans "alike throughout America want a change.

"They want to clean up the corruption in Washington which has cast an unfair reflection on millions of honest government employes.

"They want a man in the White House who does not look upon the Communists in America as 'red herrings' or 'phantoms in our midst.'

"They want relief from the policies which have put the double squeeze of high taxes and high prices on every family budget."

State Spends $861,437 In Its Crime Hunt

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—New York state has shelled out $861,437.06 in its hunt for crime and political corruption, and there are still trails to explore.

The investigations, sparked by the State Crime Commission, were ordered by Gov. Dewey in the wake of dramatic hearings by the U. S. Senate's Crime Investigating Committee.

The state commission was given a dual assignment: To spotlight any illicit political-underworld links and to weigh the feasibility of broadening state control over local law enforcement and plugging loopholes in present laws.

After performing the preliminary spadework, the commission, headed by Joseph M. Proskauer of New York city, passed on its findings to special grand juries in St. Lawrence, Columbia and Richmond counties.

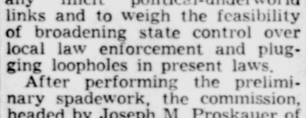

In the achievement column, investigators list potshots at political chieftains in several counties and the hobbling of smaller game, especially in gambling and the rackets.

Several persons, some of them political bigwigs, have been indicted on felony charges of corruption. The special juries also have returned many misdemeanor indictments.

Pope Receive Three

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Aug. 13 (AP)—Pope Pius XII received three members of the U. S. Senate Judiciary Committee in special audience today. The three Americans—Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) Robert C. Hendrickson (R-N.J.) and Willis Smith (D-N.C.)—spent about 20 minutes with the pontiff. The senators arrived in Rome last night to confer with Italian officials on emigration and problems connected with political refugees.

Cards Unveil New 'Dizzy Dean'; Rain Delays Start of 'Miracle'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stu Miller's sensational debut with the St. Louis Cardinals recalls the "good old days" when pitchers like Bill Hallahan, Dizzy and Paul Dean, Howie Pollet and Harry Brecheen used to pop out of the Card farm system each fall.

Houston, Columbus and Rochester usually were loaded with lean, hungry young men who could throw a ball through a brick wall and lasso a calf with their curve ball.

Since the war, talent has come in dribs and drabs. More and more the Card managers have had to lean on the old standbys of other years. Fellows like Al Brazle and Brecheen.

Now comes Miller, a 24-year-old righthander with an 11-5 record at Columbus, to stand the Chicago Cubs on their ears with a six-hit shutout, 1-0.

Miller's first quotes would indicate he has a sense of humor—as well as "a fast ball, a slow one and another slow one that's slower than the other."

"I felt better after the first inning," he said. "And I knew that Hank Sauer couldn't hit my fast ball . . . because I didn't throw any fast balls when he was up."

Just to prove he had it in the clutch, Miller breezed a 3-2 pitch past Bill Serena for a called strike in the ninth with men on first and third and two out.

Hal Rice's first-inning single scored Red Schoendienst with the game's only run, handing Bob Rush his 11th loss and second straight 1-0 defeat.

Miracle Delayed

The New York Giants won't start any Little Miracle this August 12th. That became definite last night when their scheduled night game at Brooklyn was rained out. Having passed their anniversary (of the start of the 1951 push) in idleness, the Giants hope to launch their '52 spurt in a day-night doubleheader at Brooklyn today.

Rain kept both the New York Yankees and runnerup Cleveland idle yesterday, the Yanks' home night game with Washington was put over to make a doubleheader today. Cleveland's home date with Detroit also was rained out.

A's Nip Bosox

Boston lost a chance to gain on the leaders by dropping a 13-inning game to the Philadelphia A's who now trail the Yanks by only 7½ lengths. Billy Hitchcock's single scored Gus Zernial in the 13th to top the Red Sox, 4-3, after Clyde Vollmer's two-run homer tied the score in the eighth.

Carl Scheib allowed 10 hits in his route-going chore, limiting the Red Sox to one hit after Vollmer's home run. Al Benton, who relieved Dizzy Trout at the start of the 12th, was charged with the loss as Zernial singled, took second on a sacrifice and scored on Hitchcock's hit.

Jimmy Dyck took matters into his own hands to power the St. Louis Browns to a 3-2 win over the Chicago White Sox in 12 innings. Dyck's first homer tied the score in the eighth and his second won the game for Gene Bearden in the 12th. Bearden, Cleveland's pennant-winning hero in 1946, allowed only five hits in posting his sixth comeback victory.

Rain Wipes Out Baseball Schedule City League Game — Meeting Today

With the KAA Little League and Fraternal Youth League drawing their customary Wednesday byes, only two games are scheduled today.

The second place Yankees meet the last place Giants in the Esopus Little League at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Jones Dairy, seeking its fourth straight victory of the second round, will send Tommy Fisher to the hill against Chez Emile in today's City League feature at the Athletic Field.

A special meeting of the City League managers and officials has been called following the game.

Action resumes in the KAA Little League on Thursday, with the league-leading Red Sox opposing the Giants. A victory will assure the Red Sox of no worse than a tie for first place in the second half.

Fraternal League play on Thursday pairs the Rotary against the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Cards Unveil New 'Dizzy Dean'; Rain Delays Start of 'Miracle'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stu Miller's sensational debut with the St. Louis Cardinals recalls the "good old days" when pitchers like Bill Hallahan, Dizzy and Paul Dean, Howie Pollet and Harry Brecheen used to pop out of the Card farm system each fall.

Houston, Columbus and Rochester usually were loaded with lean, hungry young men who could throw a ball through a brick wall and lasso a calf with their curve ball.

Since the war, talent has come in dribs and drabs. More and more the Card managers have had to lean on the old standbys of other years. Fellows like Al Brazle and Brecheen.

Now comes Miller, a 24-year-old righthander with an 11-5 record at Columbus, to stand the Chicago Cubs on their ears with a six-hit shutout, 1-0.

Miller's first quotes would indicate he has a sense of humor—as well as "a fast ball, a slow one and another slow one that's slower than the other."

"I felt better after the first inning," he said. "And I knew that Hank Sauer couldn't hit my fast ball . . . because I didn't throw any fast balls when he was up."

Just to prove he had it in the clutch, Miller breezed a 3-2 pitch past Bill Serena for a called strike in the ninth with men on first and third and two out.

Hal Rice's first-inning single scored Red Schoendienst with the game's only run, handing Bob Rush his 11th loss and second straight 1-0 defeat.

Miracle Delayed

The New York Giants won't start any Little Miracle this August 12th. That became definite last night when their scheduled night game at Brooklyn was rained out. Having passed their anniversary (of the start of the 1951 push) in idleness, the Giants hope to launch their '52 spurt in a day-night doubleheader at Brooklyn today.

Just for the records, in case anybody starts a big push, Brooklyn leads New York by nine games and St. Louis by 11.

The Boston at Philadelphia game in the National was washed out and Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Rain kept both the New York Yankees and runnerup Cleveland idle yesterday, the Yanks' home night game with Washington was put over to make a doubleheader today. Cleveland's home date with Detroit also was rained out.

A's Nip Bosox

Boston lost a chance to gain on the leaders by dropping a 13-inning game to the Philadelphia A's who now trail the Yanks by only 7½ lengths. Billy Hitchcock's single scored Gus Zernial in the 13th to top the Red Sox, 4-3, after Clyde Vollmer's two-run homer tied the score in the eighth.

Carl Scheib allowed 10 hits in his route-going chore, limiting the Red Sox to one hit after Vollmer's home run. Al Benton, who relieved Dizzy Trout at the start of the 12th, was charged with the loss as Zernial singled, took second on a sacrifice and scored on Hitchcock's hit.

Jimmy Dyck took matters into his own hands to power the St. Louis Browns to a 3-2 win over the Chicago White Sox in 12 innings. Dyck's first homer tied the score in the eighth and his second won the game for Gene Bearden in the 12th. Bearden, Cleveland's pennant-winning hero in 1946, allowed only five hits in posting his sixth comeback victory.

Rain Wipes Out Baseball Schedule City League Game — Meeting Today

Rain washed out three scheduled baseball games yesterday in the City and Little Leagues.

With the KAA Little League and Fraternal Youth League drawing their customary Wednesday byes, only two games are scheduled today.

The second place Yankees meet the last place Giants in the Esopus Little League at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Jones Dairy, seeking its fourth straight victory of the second round, will send Tommy Fisher to the hill against Chez Emile in today's City League feature at the Athletic Field.

A special meeting of the City League managers and officials has been called following the game.

Action resumes in the KAA Little League on Thursday, with the league-leading Red Sox opposing the Giants. A victory will assure the Red Sox of no worse than a tie for first place in the second half.

Fraternal League play on Thursday pairs the Rotary against the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Boros and Middlecoff In Kansas City Open

Kansas City, Aug. 13 (AP)—Three former champions and Julius Boros, red hot iron man from Mid Pines, N. C., will be among the better known swingers in competition for the Kansas City Open golf tournament title starting tomorrow.

The $15,000 tournament, a PGA sanctioned affair, goes four days on the 6,208-yard par-72 Milburn Country Club course.

Boros, who beat Cary Middlecoff in George May's "world's" championship match in a playoff Monday after capturing the U. S. Open title, will be favored here along with Big Jim Ferrier, Lloyd Mangrum and Middlecoff.

Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians tied an American League record when he struck out five times in one game on April 25, 1948.

Dodger Stars of Tomorrow Win Three of First Four Road Games

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Bob Umpleby plans to keep the KAA Little League All Stars busy with post-season series against Saugerties and Poughkeepsie. A three-game set is in the making with the Saugerties league which has been unable to hide its chagrin at the first round defeat in the Section 3 tournament.

Saugerties officials believe their fire-balling Kugelman is one of the best Little League pitchers in the area and that the forthcoming series with Catskill and Kingston will prove the point.

Meanwhile, it would be nice to see Kingston play the Town of Esopus Little Leaguers in an all-star contest.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Contrary to Joe Williams' early-season prediction that the Yankees would continue to pack Yankee Stadium despite the absence of Joe DiMaggio, if they stayed in contention, the Bronx Bombers are running some 300,000 behind last year's attendance. They have a boxoffice nugget in Mickey Mantle but the switch-hitting star is not ready to challenge DiMaggio as a super attraction. Did you ever see such a screwy major league season? The Dodgers can't beat the Giants who invariably roll over and play dead after a successful series against the Brooks. The Yankees can't handle the Red Sox and are baffled by an old relic like Al Benton. It's the big name star who turns the average attendance figures into great ones. A year ago, with Bobby Shantz pitching against the Boston Red Sox, the Athletics drew 3055. Last week, a year later, Shantz went to the mound against the Red Sox in Philly before 35,673. Doesn't that prove that a real star is worth five or six figure salaries?

Fred Davi may bring one of his major league friends to Saugerties for the Sept. 7 date between the Saugerties and Kingston Old Timers. A fleet of more than 200 is expected for the annual Albany to New York "Driftwood Derby" next Sunday. Leading hydro pilots seeking shares of $5,910 cash prizes and trophies in six classes include Vic Scott of Levittown, a two-time winner; August Nigl, the 1950 champion; Gil Peterman and Warren Kenny of Malverne and Fred Mayer of Flushing. With the exception of Nigl, all are familiar figures in the Kingston Power Boat Association's annual regatta. Of 39 different colleges on RPI's 1952-53 athletic schedule, only the University of Virginia is outside a 275-mile radius from Troy, RPI's home town. Baseball can be bigger news than politics in this hot presidential campaign year. The big Detroit-Boston deal a while back was announced the day General Eisenhower came home. In Detroit, it took the headline play away from Ike. A friend of Tiger president Spike Briggs commented that if he hadn't seen Spike wearing a favorable political button, he'd have sworn Spike pulled the deal to steal the show from Ike.

Jim "Babe" Volker, a pre-war pitching ace in the area, who hit two of the longest home runs on record at Millbrook and Saugerties, would have been proud watching Jim Jr. belt one over the fence in the KAA Little League Monday. Pete Petropoulos, the New York booking agent, has revived the famous Original Renaissance, the predecessors to the Harlem Globe Trotters as Negro basketball champions. The Rens attracted one of the largest crowds in local history in a game with Frank "Pop" Morgenweck's last Kingston squad of Carl Husta, Frank Shimek, "Pip" Koehler, Tiny Hearn, Corky Stanton et al. The fire department halted the sale of tickets and you can still see some fair ladies weeping in the municipal auditorium lobby because there were no more seats. The Renaissance of that era had great stars in Willie Smith, Fats Jenkins, Eyre Saitch, Tarzan Cooper and a host of others. During the past 29 years, the Rens have won more than 4011 games, 491 of them in overtime, and were four times world's professional champions. They were the first team to bring to the fans the art of tricky ball handling and the famous wizard ball handling.

Warren Page, shooting editor of NEA's Field and Stream column in the Freeman, recently became the first big game hunter in nearly half a century to shoot one of the rare glacier bears found only in Alaska's Yakutat Bay region. Deep snow and bad weather combined to make Page's task uncommonly difficult. Page is believed the first sportsman to bag a glacier bear since 1906, the year the Hardy Trefzger, one of the guides on the Yakutat, arrived in southwest Alaska. "The animal was killed in a steep slide at the very tip of Yakutat Bay, almost bowled me over when it rolled down," Page wrote. There's a man who lives his interesting outdoor copy.

Famous Rookie Squad Here on August 20

With Seattle University's famous basketball O'Briens — Jack and Ed—heading the stellar array, the Brooklyn Dodgers' Stars of Tomorrow, who are scheduled to meet the Legion Juniors at municipal stadium on Aug. 20, are enjoying great success on their current exhibition tour through the East.

Jack O'Brien is the young man who earned national basketball headlines by scoring more than 1,000 points for Seattle.

According to A. B. "Turk" Karam, who is directing the tour for the Stars of Tomorrow, the O'Brien twins have been playing sensational ball.

"The O'Brien twins are playing exceptional ball for us," he writes, "and it's a treat to watch those boys covering their positions."

Win Three of Four

The Stars won three of their first four engagements in New York and Massachusetts, Karam reports. They dropped a 5-3 decision to the Glens Falls Stars, but nosed out Pittsfield, 6 to 5. Other victories were scored over Amsterdam, 12-3, and Watertown, 6-4.

Besides the O'Briens, the Dodger yearlings have 12 outstanding college and scholastic stars recruited from the metropolitan area. They are the survivors of extensive tryouts and eliminations involving more than 500 players.

The club carries two standout pitching prospects in Jack Dalton, a 6 feet 2, 175-pound right hander from St. John's Prep in Brooklyn. The 18-year-old is a side-arming hurler with great promise.

The Stars have another potential great in Harold Cooley of Brooklyn Tech High School. Cooley, a right hander, stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 185. He hits well enough to play the outfield when not pitching.

Good Coaching

While Karam handles the booking and public relations for the club, the Dodgers have installed two veteran members of the organization as coaches.

One is Buck Lai, graduate manager of athletics at Long Island University. Lai also scouts the metropolitan area for the Brooklyn Dodgers and has served in this capacity for the past five seasons.

Art Dede, who will manage the Brooklyn rookie team, has been with the Dodgers for the past 12 seasons. Dede brings to the Stars the friendly touch of a mature gentleman and also the knowledge and ability of handling and controlling young men.

Dede was a member of the 1916 Brooklyn Dodgers when he served as a bullpen catcher. He scouts the metropolitan area for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Art Dede's record with rookie teams has been an outstanding one.

The personnel of the Kingston Juniors has not been announced but Coaches Tom Maines and Eddie Bahl are expected to release the names of their roster this weekend.

Hunting Violations Lower in State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—The number of persons penalized for fishing and hunting violations in New York State dropped 37.4 per cent in May and June from the total for those months last year.

Perry B. Duryea, State Conservation Commissioner, noted yesterday that the decrease indicated better observance of the state fish and game laws by most sportsmen.

A total of 284 cases was settled for $6,352 in May compared with the 469 cases settled for $8,827 in May, 1951. The June total this year was 243, with penalties adding up to $4,947. In June, 1951, there were 373 cases and $6,886 was paid in penalties.

Most of the penalties this spring were for fishing without a license or other angling violations.

Chichelsky Elected City Minor President

Jake Chichelsky, a member of the Kingston Bowling Association's executive board, has been elected president of the City Minor Bowling League for the 1952-53 season.

The league will open its 32-week schedule on Monday, Sept. 8.

Thomas Orr will be installed as president of the Kingston Bowling Association for the 1952-53 season at the annual dinner meeting this evening at Twaalfskill Golf Club.

Orr succeeds Emmanuel Colao, interim president.

Sailor Tom Sharkey, 79, and Destitute Fighting Last Round in Coast Hospital

His opponents are old age, feebleness and lonliness.

Friends have come to his aid. Parker Maddux, banker, and Louis Lurie, financier, are members of a committee which has undertaken to collect a fund for the old-time pugilist's needs. Contributions have been small. Less than $1,000 is on hand for medical and other aid.

Sailor Tom is of another era, that of more than fifty years ago. Never a champion himself, he boxed the best in his day. He is the only man alive today who exchanged punches with the first four heavyweight champions under the Marquis of Queensbury rules. They are John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons and James J. Jeffries.

Sharkey was born in Dundalk, Ireland, Nov. 26, 1873. He is approaching his 79th birthday.

Defeated the Greats

In the ring, he never asked for nor gave quarter. He was a barrel-chested strongman, standing 5 feet 8½ inches. His fighting weight ranged from 180 to 185 pounds. He spotted rivals thirty pounds and more.

In 1896, Sharkey boxed a four-round draw with Corbett in San Francisco; a three-round no decision contest with Sullivan in New York city and won on an eight round foul from Fitzsimmons, in San Francisco.

He lost a close 20-round decision to the champion, Jeffries, in 1898 and won from Corbett on a ninth round foul in the same year. It led to a title match with Jeffries in Coney Island, Nov. 3, 1899.

Sailor Tom stood up under Jeffries' hardest blows for the full 25 rounds. He lost the decision.

In his peak days, Sharkey had a fortune of $250,000. He owned a showplace saloon in New York and raced a stable of trotting horses. Of late years, he has eked out an existence as a guard at race tracks and on the waterfront here.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Stuart Miller, Cards, rookie from Columbus broke into majors with six-hit shutout over Chicago, 1-0.

Walt Dropo of the Detroit Tigers holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education from the University of Connecticut.

Keep costs down, performance up, with a Dodge

- Haul at lower cost with a Dodge truck—½- through 4-ton—that's "Job-Rated" to fit your job.
- Boost gasoline mileage with features like high-compression ratio and special gas-saving carburetor.
- Reduce upkeep with such wear-saving features as floating oil intake and positive-pressure lubrication.
- Enjoy super-smooth performance with gyrol Fluid Drive, wear-protecting advantage available on all ½-, ¾-, 1-ton and Route-Van models.
- Come in for a demonstration—and a good deal!

Save on gas and oil. All 8 Dodge truck engines give exceptional economy with plenty of power. You get advantages like lightweight aluminum pistons, improved fuel system with economy control, precision-balanced crankshaft, and other money-saving features.

Save on maintenance. Rugged engines and chassis make Dodge trucks famous for dependability. Upkeep costs stay low because of special Dodge features like 4-ring pistons, chrome-plated top ring, and wear-resisting exhaust valve seat inserts.

Save with long life. Because Dodge trucks last so long, depreciation is less and trade-in value stays up. Long life and dependability are result of such features as alloy steel springs, shot-peened axle shafts, and extra-sturdy frames.

"My Dodge trucks save a lot of money on gas!" says H. A. ROBINSON, Contract Hauler, Mobile, Ala.

"On a 200-mile run I save 1½ to 2 gallons of gas. I get this saving seven days a week, and on my two trucks that means I save over $300.00 a year on gas alone. That's good, because each of my trucks makes an average of 50 stops per day hauling mail.

"My first Dodge truck cost me only $54.00 of repair expense in two years. I ran my second Dodge over 103,000 miles in two years and spent only $15.50 on it for repairs.

"If I'd known what I know now about Dodge trucks, I'd have switched to them long ago and saved myself a lot of money."

Sailor Tom Sharkey, 79, and Destitute Fighting Last Round in Coast Hospital

His opponents are old age, feebleness and lonliness.

Sharkey is confined to a bed in San Francisco Hospital. He entered the institution penniless.

Friends have come to his aid. Parker Maddux, banker, and Louis Lurie, financier, are members of a committee which has undertaken to collect a fund for the old-time pugilist's needs. Contributions have been small. Less than $1,000 is on hand for medical and other aid.

Sailor Tom is of another era, that of more than fifty years ago. Never a champion himself, he boxed the best in his day. He is the only man alive today who exchanged punches with the first four heavyweight champions under the Marquis of Queensbury rules. They are John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons and James J. Jeffries.

Sharkey was born in Dundalk, Ireland, Nov. 26, 1873. He is approaching his 79th birthday.

Defeated the Greats

In the ring, he never asked for nor gave quarter. He was a barrel-chested strongman, standing 5 feet 8½ inches. His fighting weight ranged from 180 to 185 pounds. He spotted rivals thirty pounds and more.

In 1896, Sharkey boxed a four-round draw with Corbett in San Francisco; a three-round no decision contest with Sullivan in New York city and won on an eight round foul from Fitzsimmons, in San Francisco.

He lost a close 20-round decision to the champion, Jeffries, in 1898 and won from Corbett on a ninth round foul in the same year. It led to a title match with Jeffries in Coney Island, Nov. 3, 1899.

Sailor Tom stood up under Jeffries' hardest blows for the full 25 rounds. He lost the decision.

In his peak days, Sharkey had a fortune of $250,000. He owned a showplace saloon in New York and raced a stable of trotting horses. Of late years, he has eked out an existence as a guard at race tracks and on the waterfront here.

Yesterday's Stars

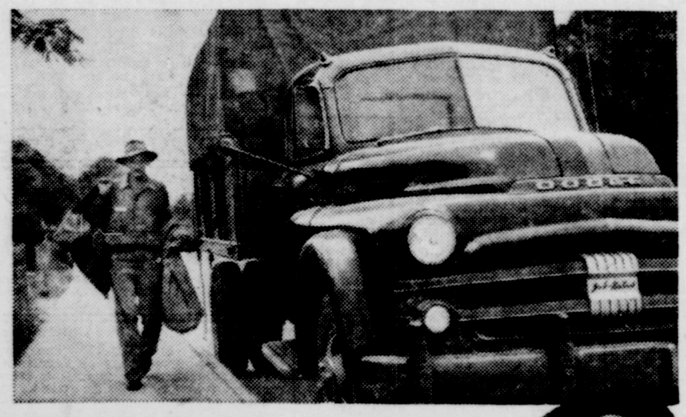

(By The Associated Press)

Batting — Jim Dyck, Browns, hit two home runs to top White Sox, 3-2, tying game in eighth and winning it in 11th inning.

Pitching—Stuart Miller, Cards, rookie from Columbus broke into majors with six-hit shutout over Chicago, 1-0.

Walt Dropo of the Detroit Tigers holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education from the University of Connecticut.

Keep costs down, performance up, with a Dodge

- Haul at lower cost with a Dodge truck — ½- through 4-ton—that's "Job-Rated" to fit your job.
- Boost gasoline mileage with features like high-compression ratio and special gas-saving carburetor.
- Reduce upkeep with such wear-saving features as floating oil intake and positive-pressure lubrication.
- Enjoy super-smooth performance with gyrol Fluid Drive, wear-protecting advantage available on all ½-, ¾-, 1-ton and Route-Van models.
- Come in for a demonstration—and a good deal!

Save on gas and oil. All 8 Dodge truck engines give exceptional economy with plenty of power. You get advantages like lightweight aluminum pistons, improved fuel system with economy control, precision-balanced crankshaft, and other money-saving features.

Save on maintenance. Rugged engines and chassis make Dodge trucks famous for dependability. Upkeep costs stay low because of special Dodge features like 4-ring pistons, chrome-plated top ring, and wear-resisting exhaust valve seat inserts.

Save with long life. Because Dodge trucks last so long, depreciation is less and trade-in value stays up. Long life and dependability are result of such features as alloy steel springs, shot-peened axle shafts, and extra-sturdy frames.

"My Dodge trucks save a lot of money on gas!" says H. A. ROBINSON, Contract Hauler, Mobile, Ala.

"On a 200-mile run I save 1½ to 2 gallons of gas. I get this saving seven days a week, and on my two trucks that means I save over $300.00 a year on gas alone. That's good, because each of my trucks makes an average of 50 stops per day hauling mail.

"My first Dodge truck cost me only $54.00 of repair expense in two years. I ran my second Dodge over 103,000 miles in two years and spent only $15.50 on it for repairs.

"If I'd known what I know now about Dodge trucks, I'd have switched to them long ago and saved myself a lot of money."

STRIKING TROUT WITH A DRY FLY...

EXPERIMENTS HAVE PROVED THAT WHEN UNATTACHED ARTIFICIAL FLIES WERE THROWN INTO A POOL, TROUT TOOK THEM TO THE BOTTOM BEFORE SPITTING THEM OUT. THUS, A TIED-ON FLY IS TAKEN ALSO IF THE LINE IS NOT RESISTANT! SMALL TROUT TAKE QUICKER THAN LARGE ONES. MOST BIG TROUT ARE MISSED BECAUSE ANGLERS STRIKE TOO QUICKLY.

IN QUIET POOLS THE STRIKE IS SLOWER THAN IN FAST WATER!

Oyster Growers Convene

Atlantic City, N. J., (AP)—Oysters r'nt in season but oyster growers are out in force today. Nearly 300 self-styled underwater farmers are attending a three-day meeting of the Oyster Institute of North America. The growers call themselves farmers, says Vice-President Royal Toner of Garden City, N. Y., because they seed, plant and transplant oysters until they are ready for the market. Toner estimated that 60,000 persons on the east and gulf coasts derive a living from growing oysters. They raked in about 30 million dollars last year alone, he said. Although growers consider themselves farmers, Toner said, they don't get the federal aid the crop raisers do. Last year, he said, the government appropriated only $125,000 for research and study of all shell fish, including, lobsters, oysters and other sea life.

Legion Nine Boosts FYL Lead Defeating Police Tossers, 5-3

SAFE AT THE PLATE

Winners Outhit But Rival Errors Help

In the only area game able to survive yesterday's rainfall, the Fraternal Youth League Legion scored four runs in the third to defeat the Police, 5 to 3, at municipal stadium.

Copping their fifth victory in six starts, the Legionnaires opened up a game and a half lead over the second place Rotary and strongly enhanced their bid for the league pennant.

In the boxscore it was another of those strange FYL contests in which the winning team was outhit by the losers.

In this case the Legion collected only three hits off the combined slants of Lorenzo Giannuzzi and Bruce Bechtold but eight walks and the usual complement of miscues accounted for the difference in runs.

Frankie Reis, the Legion pitching ace, tossed a five-hitter, struck out seven and walked only two.

Rally for Four

Trailing 2-0, the Legion sewed up the game with a four-run cluster in the third. Tony Amato, the balladeer, led off with a walk and stole second. Jim Leonardo grounded out but Amato scored and Ferraro went to third on an overthrow by the catcher. Giannuzzi tried to pick Ferraro off third and tossed wildly, Ferraro scoring.

After Bob Maines walked, he went to second on a wild pitch and was nailed trying to steal third for the second out. Bob Mannello doubled behind Frank Reis' walk for another run, took third on the throwin and scored the fourth run of the frame on Bob Weishaupt's single.

The Police picked up two runs in the first when Bruce Bechtold got the first of two singles, moved to third when Leonardo booted Hamilton's grounder. Hamilton stole second and both runners scored on Ed Hearst's scratch single off first baseman Bob Weishaupt's glove. The third Police tally came in the fourth when Raible singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Amato's miscue.

Ed Remmert Wins Over Bob O'Reilly, 1-Up To Reach Semi-Finals at Twaalfskill Club

Quarter final pairings in the championship flight at Twaalfskill Golf Club will send defending champion George Hughes against veteran Lou Smith, who holds several club titles.

John Van Gonsic, winner by default over Harold Styles, takes on Ed Remmert in another of the quarter-finals, with Alvin Boice scheduled to meet Charlie Gaffney.

Boice tripped Dr. Douw Meyers, 6 and 5, and Gaffney eliminated George Schneider, 3 and 2, in second round matches. Smith defeated Dr. Joseph Jacobson in a first round match.

The most exciting match of the first round saw Bob O'Reilly, a newcomer in the championship flight, three-putt the 18th green to drop a 1-down decision to former club champion, Ed Remmert.

Trailing by three strokes at the end of nine, with a 43 against Remmert's 38, O'Reilly launched a determined rally on the back nine.

He carded 4-3-4-4-5-3 against Remmert's 4-4-3-5-6-4 to square the match on the 15th hole. O'Reilly parred the long 16th and Remmert slipped one over to put the underdog ahead by a stroke. Remmert was down with a regulation four on the 17th to O'Reilly's bogie-5 and the match stood all even coming off the 18th tee. Both players were on the green with their second shots but O'Reilly was short on the first putt and proceeded to miss the second one from just a few feet. Remmert was safely in with the regulation two putts.

Ball, Boyd Advance

In Class A, Dr. Rodney Ball of Saugerties and Austin Boyd advanced to the second round with victories over Fabian Russell and Floyd W. Flint.

Ball defeated his townsman and golf companion, 7 and 5, while Boyd squeezed by Flint, 2 and 1.

The O'Reilly-Remmert cards:

Remmert Out	534	452	555	-38
O'Reilly Out	534	473	755	-43

Remmert In	443	564	645	-41
O'Reilly In	434	453	556	-39

Remmert's total, 79; O'Reilly 82.

Frank McGuire New Tarheel Mentor

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Frank McGuire, basketball coach at St. John's University in Brooklyn since 1947 where he starred in both basketball and baseball, will guide the fortunes of the University of North Carolina starting next season.

The 37-year-old mentor's appointment as head basketball coach of the Southern Conference school for a three-year term was announced yesterday.

He succeeds Tom Scott, newly-named coach of the Phillips (Okla.) Oilers, former AAU champions.

Last year at St. John's, McGuire directed the Redman to victory in the NCAA Eastern finals. St. John's was runnerup to Kansas in the NCAA finals at Seattle. His team had a 25-5 record last season.

Billy Hitchcock of the Athletics has a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Auburn (Ala.) College.

Three Rent Heads Arrested in 'Fix'

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Three investigators of the state temporary housing and rent commission were arrested today, accused of offering to "fix" an alleged rent violation for $800.

Booked on charges of conspiracy and attempted extortion were John L. Wilson, 58, of the Bronx, and Alfred Caputo, 45, and Morris Larkin, 41, both of Brooklyn.

Their accuser was Mrs. Louis Dickmann, owner of a furnished rooming house at 337 Riverside Dr., Manhattan.

Detectives of the district attorney's office quoted Mrs. Dickmann as saying Caputo and Larkin came to her rooming house three weeks ago and took her rent records.

They returned a week later, accused her of overcharging and offered to see that the matter was quashed for $800 after telling her she was subject to a $10,000 fine and triple damages.

Mrs. Dickmann told the district attorney's office that Wilson visited her a week ago and she arranged to meet him to give him the money. Detectives said an envelope was prepared and a dictaphone was placed in the room where the transaction was to take place.

Wilson was arrested as he left the meeting. The other two suspects were taken into custody at their homes.

STRIKING TROUT WITH A DRY FLY...

Oyster Growers Convene

Atlantic City, N. J., (AP)—Oysters r'nt in season but oyster growers are out in force today. Nearly 300 self-styled underwater farmers are attending a three-day meeting of the Oyster Institute of North America. The growers call themselves farmers, says Vice-President Royal Toner of Garden City, N. Y., because they seed, plant and transplant oysters until they are ready for the market. Toner estimated that 60,000 persons on the east and gulf coasts derive a living from growing oysters. They raked in about 30 million dollars last year alone, he said. Although growers consider themselves farmers, Toner said, they don't get the federal aid the crop raisers do. Last year, he said, the government appropriated only $125,000 for research and study of all shell fish, including, lobsters, oysters and other sea life.

Legion Nine Boosts FYL Lead Defeating Police Tossers, 5-3

SAFE AT THE PLATE

Winners Outhit But Rival Errors Help

In the only area game able to survive yesterday's rainfall, the Fraternal Youth League Legion scored four runs in the third to defeat the Police, 5 to 3, at municipal stadium.

Copping their fifth victory in six starts, the Legionnaires opened up a game and a half lead over the second place Rotary and strongly enhanced their bid for the league pennant.

In the boxscore it was another of those strange FYL contests in which the winning team was outhit by the losers.

In this case the Legion collected only three hits off the combined slants of Lorenzo Giannuzzi and Bruce Bechtold but eight walks and the usual complement of miscues accounted for the difference in runs.

Frankie Reis, the Legion pitching ace, tossed a five-hitter, struck out seven and walked only two.

Rally for Four

Trailing 2-0, the Legion sewed up the game with a four-run cluster in the third. Tony Amato, the balladeer, led off with a walk and stole second. Jim Leonardo grounded out but Amato scored and Ferraro went to third on an overthrow by the catcher. Giannuzzi tried to pick Ferraro off third and tossed wildly, Ferraro scoring.

After Bob Maines walked, he went to second on a wild pitch and was nailed trying to steal third for the second out. Bob Mannello doubled behind Frank Reis' walk for another run, took third on the throwin and scored the fourth run of the frame on Bob Weishaupt's single.

Don Ferraro scored the fifth Legion run in the fifth after walking and advancing on error by the catcher and Reis' squeeze bunt.

The Police picked up two runs in the first when Bruce Bechtold got the first of two singles, moved to third when Leonardo booted Hamilton's grounder. Hamilton stole second and both runners scored on Ed Hearst's scratch single off first baseman Bob Weishaupt's glove. The third Police tally came in the fourth when Raible singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Amato's miscue.

Ed Remmert Wins Over Bob O'Reilly, 1-Up To Reach Semi-Finals at Twaalfskill Club

Laborer Is Quizzed About Sex Crimes

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—Police today questioned a Bethpage laborer concerning a number of Long Island sex crimes and booked him on a charge of second degree assault against a 15-year-old girl.

Ray Saunders, 32, of (54 Nassau Ave.) Bethpage, was booked on the assault charge after police said a 15-year-old Massapequa girl had identified him in a line-up as the man who assaulted her July 30 near Bethpage State Parkway.

The girl was pulled from her bicycle by a man, knocked out and stripped. She was not raped, police said.

Saunders, married and the father of two children, denied any knowledge of the case.

Before being booked, New York city police questioned Saunders for several hours on another case—the death of Mrs. Josephine Brown, a 23-year-old expectant mother, whose strangled body was found on a Queens lot July 25.

Was Fellow Worker

Queens Police Inspector Edward A. Feely said Saunders had been a fellow worker of Mrs. Brown's at the Renwal Manufacturing Company in Carle Place. Feely said other employes described him as "girl crazy."

New York city police finally turned Saunders over to State Parkway Police Sergeant James Gilsenan in connection with the case of the 15-year-old girl. But the New York police said they were not through questioning him concerning the death of Mrs. Brown.

Gilsenan said Saunders drove a green sedan of the same make and model which had been seen near the scenes of other Long Island sex crimes dating back to last November. He said police throughout the island had been alerted to give them a chance to question him.

Saunders will be arraigned in Nassau County Court later today on the assault charge.

Ready for 'Aggressors'

Camp Drum, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—The first night exercise of their summer training completed, foot soldiers of the 42nd (Rainbow) Infantry Division, New York National Guard, pointed today for a four-day engagement with "aggressors" next week. The opposition will be furnished by the Regular Army's 278th Regimental Combat Team, stationed here. The guardsmen advanced on foot into a heavily wooded bivouac area last night to face an imaginary enemy attack. The exercise emphasized tactical use of platoon and squad combat formations. Artillery and tank units of the 42nd taste life in the field earlier in the week.

U.S. Army Has No Comment On Japanese Jewels, Metals

Tokyo, Aug. 13 (AP)—U. S. Army authorities said today they had no comment on a Parliament Committee report that millions of dollars worth of government-owned jewels and precious metals disappeared in World War 2 and during the allied occupation.

They said records of allied custodianship were sent to Washington at the end of the occupation earlier this year and added that all or nearly all allied personnel connected with custody of the gems and metals had returned to the U. S.

An 80-page report of a special committee of the House of Representatives said it had confirmed that the treasure—including a gold, platinum and diamond-studded crown donated by Empress Nagako in wartime—was missing.

It said it had receipts from occupation authorities for some of the missing treasure, but that the jewels and metals signed for had not been returned.

No Estimate Made

The committee made no estimate of the value of the missing treasure. Japanese newspapers put the figure at $10,000,000 but admitted they were guessing.

An official of the Bank of Japan, who declined use of his name, said he thought the legislators made the report for political purposes. He said what he knew of the circumstances convinced him that the Japanese newspapers had exaggerated the case.

The gems and metals were collected in Japan during the war on the claim they were needed for industrial purposes and to purchase materiel of war.

Killer Is Hunted

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Detectives today pressed a round-the-clock manhunt for the killer of an off-duty patrolman, shot yesterday when he tried to break up a Harlem street fight. The slain patrolman, James McGillion, 35, the father of three children, gave a description of his slayer before he lapsed into a coma and died at a hospital six hours after he was shot. On special duty for the district attorney's office in Harlem, McGillion was in civilian clothes on his way home when he observed a row between two Negroes at Amsterdam avenue and 125th street.

Some people just aren't born at the right time to attain their ambitions. William Jennings Bryan was born too soon to see the Democrats become the majority party. Senator Taft was born too late to see the old conservative wing of the Republicans still in control. So neither made the grade for President.

Land Is Requisitioned

Vienna, Aug. 13 (AP)—The U. S. Army has requisitioned 91 acres of land near the festival city of Salzburg for use as a tank training ground despite bitter protests from the city council. Salzburg, besides being the center of a world-famous summer music festival, is the headquarters of U. S. troops in Austria. The army contends the land is mostly marsh or rocky and unarable. The owners contend it is valuable as a fodder source.

Duffy's Visit Is Held Advance in Aiding of Defects

New ground was broken in the health fields in this comunity when on August 11 United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County conducted the first screening clinic for hearing and speech defect under Dr. John K. Duffy, associate professor, Department of Speech of Brooklyn College and Audiologist Lennox Hill Hospital, New York.

The association had planned to engage the consultation services of Dr. Duffy on a quarterly basis but so great has been the demand for admission to the screening clinic by parents of children suffering from speech and hearing defects that another clinic has been planned in the very near future, the group reports.

This therapy was recently set up by the United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County primarily for the correction of speech and hearing defects in the cerebral palsied but in as much as there has been a demonstrated need, not only in pre-school age children, but in those children attending school that it was felt the non-cerebral palsied should also benefit by this service. The number who can be accepted will of course depend upon the capacity of the clinic.

The diagnosis, guidance and treatment of the school age group is of course a part of the education process, according to an officer of the association. In fact there are communities in this country where the recognition of this problem has resulted in setting up such programs within schools, he said.

At the first screening clinic Dr. Duffy diagnosed and prescribed therapy in the clinic and advised parents of 12 preschool age children, and 18 school age. They ranged between the ages of two and 18 years. Many applications for this clinic had to be refused because of lack of time.
